DARES RUSSELL CASE ARREST

DEFIANCE CAUSES UPROAR IN COURT

Claimant's Lawyer Challenges W. C. Russell to Cause Arrest of Client as an Imposter—Excitement Follows.

Leslie M. Simpson, attorney for Daniel Blake Russell, claimant in the Russell will case, to-day challenged William C. Russell to have the claimant arrested as an impostor. Confusion followed the challenge and the repiy of the witness was lost in it.

The challenge followed the question asked by Mr. Simpson of William C. Russell as to why he did not have the claimant arrested when he determined that he was an impostor. "I did not think it advisable to," replied the witness.

"Why do you not do so now?" asked Mr. Simpson, and then he added, "I challenge you to do so."

Immediately the court room was in an uproar. Judge Lawton, Attorney Nash, the witness and Attorney Simpson all began talking at once. Other counsel for the respondent added to the din. Finally Judge Lawton made himself heard and secluded the question and challenge.

W. C. Russell Never Voted.

The incident came during the cross-examination of William C. Russell after he had been questioned in detail about his father's home. In one of these questions he corroborated the claimant in the number of stairways in the house.

Mr. Russell admitted at one time during the questioning that he never voted. He was questioned about the leaving of Mr. Mulock from his father's home. The claimant has asserted that her presence there was the reason for his leaving. He was then asked:

Q.—Why did you give the power of attorney to someone to get your mail. A.—I did not wish to sign registered letters.

Q.—Why. A.—I knew who mthey were from.

Q.—Who? A.—The claimant. I did not wish it to appear that I had had any correspondence with him.

Returns Registered Letter.

Q.—What did you say to Frank Boyle, the letter carrier, when you returned a registered letter unopened? A.—I asked

SHAW BARRED BY BALLINGER, AIDED BY TAFT

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Another complication has arisen in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy which is seriously troubling the President and which may be the subject of Congressional action.

Secretary Ballinger has refused permission to A. C. Shaw, the deposed law officer of the Forestry Service, to practice before the Interior Department. Mr. Shaw has taken the matter up with his friends in Congress, particularly Representative Pago and Senators Overman and Simmons of North Carolina. They have in turn carried the issue to the President.

Thus far the President stands firmly by Secretary Ballinger, not to grant a permit to Mr. Shaw to practice before his department.

Mr. Shaw is the man whom Mr. Pinchot directed to proceed to Chicago and meet Louis R. Glavis, after Glavis had seen Pinchot in Spokane and told him of the situation in Alaska, with respect to the coal claims, and had been advised by the then forester to take the case to the President.

Shaw was instructed by Pinchot to assist Glavis in the preparation of his case. This charge has been denied.

Since his dismissal Mr. Shaw has sought to practice law before the land office. In order to do so it is necessary to get permission of the Secretary of the Interior. This permission Mr. Ballinger has refused and the President has concurred in his action.

Senator Root has been called upon to arbitrate or in some way settle the trouble. If he does not succeed in doing so there will arise further difficulties growing out of the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

MRS. GLOVER WINS IN BATTLE OF WITS, ASSERTS FUTRELLE

By Jacques Futrelle.

Famous New England Novelist and Criminal Mystery Expert.

Shot through the colorless, commonplace fabric of a will light in East Cambridge, quite dull enough and uninteresting enough in itself, is a single scarlet thread of mystery—an alluring, fascinating, baffling mystery of passion and hatred and death. For months, untiringly, the police, the press and individuals have worked to unravel that thread, to lay it bare from end to end, and for months yet it may go on—and always there is the chance that all these efforts will come to nothing. Here and there, as the investigation has proceeded, the scarlet has shown unexpectedly, tantalizingly, through warp and woof, as some new fact has developed, some fact which seemingly has no connection with nor any bearing on that which has gone before or comes after—and yet the scarlet has been there.

"HATTIE LE BLANC, MY WIFE'S MAID, SHOT ME"

One end of the thread lies in the hands of the police—the murder of Clarence F. Glover of Waltham, on the night of Saturday, November 20. He was shot twice, first in the back and again from front, in the shoulder. The shooting occurred in Glover's place of business, a laundry, at about ten minutes past nine o'clock, hours after the place had been closed for business. And the thread leads where? Mortally wounded, as he was, Glover looked up his slayer of business, staggered across the street, a hundred feet or more, seeking medical attention.

"Hattie Le Blanc, my wife's maid, shot me!" he said.

Hattie Le Blanc, a mere child, a slender

SEE DANGER IN BILL TO STOP FUTURES

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Hearings on the bill to prevent dealing in cotton futures was resumed to-day before the House Committee on Agriculture. Attorney Vidal of the New York and New Orleans cotton exchanges asserted the passage of the bill will be detrimental to the cotton producers, as it would take away the privilege of buying and selling cotton by contract. He criticized the methods of the directors of the New York exchange in fixing the quality of cotton to be delivered under contract.

HUNT "MAN BEHIND" IN BUNCO SYNDICATE

"Diamond Charley" Bostwick Sought by Police in Probe of Swindling Game. Lawyer Cronin Not at District Attorney's Hearing.

The police to-day began a search for "Diamond Charley" Bostwick, who is declared to be the real leader of the Boston "Bunco Syndicate."

WAS INDICTED FOR ATTEMPTED EXTORTION.

He is the man who six years ago was indicted with a Mrs. Mae Clark for an attempt to extort $25,000 from two Taunton society people after a wild career of "high finance" in that city. He is the man who, posing as a prosperous real estate agent at No. 24 State street, three years ago conducted swindling operations in "the Street" until he was driven out almost in force.

Police Knew All About It.

The mention of "Diamond Charley" Bostwick in the case opened the eyes of the officials in Pemberton square to-day. It is supposed that the police knew of his connection with the "Bunco Syndicate," since it is known that they have been aware of the depredations of the gang for a long time. If police officials were not, in fact, actually members of the ring.

But Bostwick has succeeded in keeping his connection with the gang secret from the public until to-day, and the case against him was put so strongly up to the police that they had to get busy.

Bostwick has succeeded in keeping out of the limelight for nearly three years, but comes into the "Bunco Syndicate" case strongly to-day.

He has a record for swindling equaled by few Massachusetts men. He is tall and imposing of stature, with iron gray hair, black mustache and handsome face. He posed as a real estate dealer and convinced people that he was a man of importance, notwithstanding he served a two years' term in the reformatory before gloming in 1901.

Fresh From Reformatory.

Fresh from the reformatory, he arrived in Taunton seven years ago and opened an office where he conducted a real estate business. With him arrived Mrs. May Clark, who established a luxurious home. Bostwick operated so successfully in Taunton that he was admitted to the exclusive Taunton Club and was begun to figure in society there.

Among others, he became acquainted with Maurice Mason and his sister, Mrs. Madeleine Brubosch, prominent and wealthy society people. Not long after that Mrs. Clark became furiously jealous, apparently. She declared that Bostwick had induced her money in his business and had then deserted her. Bostwick quit the city. Then Mrs. Clark sued Mrs. Brubosch for $25,000 for alleged alienation of affections, claiming that she, herself, was engaged to Bostwick.

Mrs. Brubosch and her brother Mason were naturally indignant, since they had nothing but a mere acquaintance with Bostwick. Instead of settling or compromising the suit, Colonel Mason put detectives on the track of Bostwick and Mrs. Clark. With the result that they were both indicted for conspiracy to extort money.

Couldn't Find the Couple.

District Attorney James M. Swift took up the case, but could never find the pair. Bostwick went to, it was supposed, to St. Louis. Mrs. Clark came to Boston where trace of her was lost.

About three years ago Bostwick turned up with a real estate office in the Old South building, from there moving to No. 24 State street, in the heart of the financial district.

He was visited from the Old South building at the time friends of his were rounded up for swindling. He managed to keep the State street place for a long time, although complaints were made against him. But these complaints soon became so strong that he was obliged to leave. It was declared then that he was operating the "face trimming" game with Martin Walsh, "Big Bill" Kelliher and others.

Among Bostwick's victims was a young Cambridge business man who lost $1,000, a young collector who was swindled of a like sum and practically ruined, and a third who never entered a complaint, but who privately admitted to-day that he was fleeced of $2,000.

Police Captains Armstrong and McGarr, of the Bunco Squad, in their investigation, have reported numerous new facts to District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier. Pelletier's investigation of the "Bunco

BUDGET TO BE TAKEN UP SOON

LONDON, March 3.—The budget will be taken up before the spring recess. This was announced in the Commons to-day by Premier Asquith, who declared that, subject to unforeseen contingencies, the financial bill would be offered immediately after the resolution on the Lords' veto power had been passed by the Commons.

He also declared that if the government is unable to have passed the proposals regarding the Lord's veto, the Cabinet will resign.

PARKER WILL TRY MT. M'KINLEY CLIMB

LEWISTON, Me., March 3.—An attempt to ascend by a newcomb the hitherto unclimbed Alaskan peak, Mt. McKinley, which Dr. Frederick A. Cook claims to have conquered, is to be made this Spring by a party led by Professor Herschel C. Parker of Columbia University. Professor Parker said to-day that the expedition would start about April 25. "We shall reach the summit or prove that it can be reached only by aeroplane," he added.

ASK STATE TO AID HOME PLAN

James F. Smith, a trustee of the Lowell Textile School, joined with Representative James H. Mellen of Worcester, to-day, before the Committee on Public Health, at the State House, in recommending the appointment of a second Homestead Commission to investigate tenement houses as a relief for the congestion of the cities. The Mellen suggestion once been turned down by a commission.

"The cornering out of such a mine," Mr. Smith said, "will do more for the general welfare than any other that has been suggested. You cannot get the people back to the farm, but you can place them on arable tracts of the property supervised by the State Board of Agriculture, and you can help them to raise three-fourths of the things they need."

The suggestion is that bonds be issued to the amount of $100,000, to run twenty-five years, and that any holder of $100 worth may purchase a house and lot and pay at not less than $15 a month.

No opposition appeared, which doesn't mean that there will be none.

PANSIES IN FULL BLOOM.

CORTLANDVILLE, N. H., March 3.—Pansies in full bloom were picked in the garden of Mrs. Ann Pierce to-day. They had grown through snow an inch and a half deep.

BABY SKUNKS APPEAR.

ELIOT, Me., March 3.—Budding pussy willows, flourishing green dandelions and now baby skunks are among the signs of an early Spring noted here. In addition robins have arrived from Palm Beach, and the sparrows are already busy building nests.

STEEL TRUST GUN FOR U. S. BLOWS UP

WASHINGTON, March 3.—One of the colossal fourteen-inch guns cast during the ordnance crisis at Sandy Hook and the matter was handed up, according to Representative Rainey of Illinois, who made a sensational attack upon the Bethlehem Steel Company and the government officials who have been dictating it with orders. The gun which burst, he said, was made by the most poorly paid skilled labor in the country. Mr. Rainey made his others in the middle of a speech during the discussion of the pending appropriation bill. The Bethlehem plant, according to Mr. Rainey, is the home of strikes and many labor troubles.

"NO-CONQUEST" WAR BILL BY BRIDGEMAN

E. T. Bridgeman, dean of the State House reporters, has offered for adoption by the Legislature resolutions asking assurance from Congress that it will not attempt to increase the territory of the United States by conquest. The Federal Relations Committee gave a hearing on the petition to-day. Congress is asked to request President Taft and Secretary of State Knox to transmit to the next international peace conference the assurance of the United States that it will not enlarge its boundaries through war.

DIAMOND SALES MAKING A RECORD

NEW YORK, March 3.—The total valuation of diamonds and precious stones imported in February was $3,733,105.70. Maiden Lane dispatches said that the value of the gems imported during the month is the largest in the history of the trade for that period. They also said indications that conditions in the trade have fully recovered from the financial depression. Since last July over $21,000,000 worth of gems have been brought into this city.

TAFT'S IRISH SOD SHIPPED TO CHICAGO

QUEENSTOWN, March 3.—The bit of the Irish sod on which President Taft will stand when he delivers his St. Patrick's Day oration before the Fellowship Club in Chicago, was shipped on the liner St. Louis to-day. Shamrocks went with the little piece of the "auld sod."

CITY HALL STORMED BY MOB

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—Mobs this afternoon surrounded the City Hall. Their attitude was threatening, and there were many clashes with the police. Every available policeman was rushed to the scene, and cordons were thrown about the buildings. The unusual stand of the councils in holding secret sessions on the car strike aroused the crowds to extreme indignation.

Rioting again marked the car strike to-day. Cars and strike-breakers were attacked and showered with missiles in Broadway to-day when the service was started, and for two hours the district was in a state of terror. Platoons of police were rushed in automobiles.

Car tracks were torn from the ground and heaped in the air while the forces was applied to the waiting room at Orthodox and Richmond streets. The town police and a night watchman stood by helpless to prevent the destruction of property. Like a horde of wild men the crowd assailed everything belonging to the transit company and wrecked it by violence or set fire to it.

Much Property in Danger.

Furnaces were lighted and the mob directed its attention to the waiting room. Cans of oil were hastily poured on three sides of the building and several torches applied to it. The flames sprang up and quickly consumed the small building, endangering a row of houses across the street.

The Bridesburg fire department was sent for, but was obstructed in obstacles placed in the street. A uniformed striking motorman protested against the men carrying out its destructive purpose and implored them to stop and go home. He was jeered by the crowd and invited to join in the fun. With the arrival of a squad of police nothing in an opposite direction to the approach of the close-moving fire company the crowd was scattered.

Fortified Against Police.

A large signboard twelve feet high and ten feet long was torn from its fastenings and placed lengthwise across the tracks, and the crowd fortified itself behind it in preparation for the assault of the police. The company's cars on the Bridesburg division when notified of the riot. While the flames were shooting skyward from the burning waiting room the crowd danced and jeered the transit company and threatened to destroy the car tracks clear into Philadelphia. Its contempt of the authorities pictured the big mob, which reported to all kinds of excesses.

The outbreak followed the attempt of the transit company to operate cars on the Bridesburg division, which has been without service since the strike began. One car passed Orthodox and Richmond streets and that was the signal for a general outburst of rioting.

A crowd, numbering several thousand quickly gathered and some one suggested tearing up the tracks and throwing them in the gutters. Willing hands attacked the switch and rapidly ripped a dozen of the ground, taking several feet of track with it. The switch was beat upward and left sticking in the air, a target for stones and missiles.

Midnight Strike Ordered.

Delegates of the Central Labor Union and representatives of other trade unions, meeting in executive session until midnight, decided to order a strike of all union organizations, to begin at midnight Friday, in sympathy with the striking street car employes.

W. C. RUSSELL DEFIED TO ACCUSE CLAIMANT OF BEING IMPOSTOR

him to have the letter held for a day or two so that I could notify my counsel.

Q.—How did you notify your counsel? A.—Through Miss Almy.

Q.—What did she say when the letter came? A.—She said she thought they had no right to make me sign my name.

The witness then said that Miss Almy came back after notifying his counsel with a paper for him to sign that was an order for his mail.

Attorney Simpson also drew from the claimant the admission that Mrs. Muloch, once a servant in the Russell house, had told him before the second interview that the claimant's eyes were too small to be those of Daniel Blake Russell. Attorney Simpson then asked:

Q.—What did you say in reply to this? A.—I said I could see no resemblance.

Q.—Will you swear now that the claimant's eyes are smaller than your brother's? A.—No.

In Court Without Detectives.

For the first time since his appearance at the hearing William C. Russell arrived at the Courthouse to-day, unattended by detectives. He was accompanied by Attorney Nason and Ferdinand B. Almy.

Just before court opened Attorney Simpson made the statement that the trial would undoubtedly last through this month. Daniel Blake Russell will take the witness stand for the third time, and there will be other witnesses in rebuttal put on by Mr. Simpson. After talking with Attorney Nason Mr. Simpson thought they might finish in three weeks, but probably not before the last of the month.

When William C. Russell's cross-examination was resumed he was questioned in regard to the second interview he had with the claimant.

Q.—Is it true as you testified yesterday afternoon just before the close of court that you can recall no part of the conversation while you were waiting for the claimant at the second interview? A.—No.

Q.—Now tell us once more who was there? A.—Mr. Axford, Mrs. Muloch, Almy and myself.

Q.—And these gentlemen and yourself were there for a half an hour before the claimant arrived? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you take any part in the conversation yourself? A.—No.

Q.—Did Mrs. Muloch? A.—No.

Q.—Was she present by your invitation? A.—No.

Q.—Did you invite Axford? A.—No.

Q.—Although Axford had not seen the claimant up to that time, did you get the impression from what he said to Almy that he believed the claimant to be an impostor? A.—Yes.

Q.—After the claimant arrived did Mr. Almy take notes of the conversation? A.—Not that I remember.

Q.—How many times since have you discussed these interviews with Mr. Almy? A.—Two or three times.

Q.—Have you discussed them with anyone else? A.—Miss Sarah Almy.

Has Forgotten Conversation.

Q.—Yet she was not present at the interviews? A.—No.

Q.—How did she know about them? A.—Only what she had been told.

Q.—During the interview did anything happen to lead you to believe that the claimant was not Daniel Blake Russell? A.—No.

Q.—Are you unable to remember anything that the claimant said? A.—I do not remember at this time.

Q.—After the interview did Mrs. Muloch say anything to you about the claimant? A.—She said my brother was smaller than the claimant.

Q.—Anything else? A.—She said my brother had larger and more prominent eyes.

Q.—Did you say anything in reply? A.—I said "I do not see the slightest resemblance."

Q.—Will you now swear that your brother had larger eyes than the claimant? A.—No.

Q.—How soon after this meeting did you see the claimant for the third time? A.—About half an hour.

Q.—Who were present? A.—Mr. Almy, the claimant and myself.

Q.—How long did the third interview last? A.—Nearly an hour?

Talked of the Far West.

Q.—What was the talk about A.—The claimant talked a good deal about his place out West.

Q.—What did he say? A.—I did not pay much attention and I cannot recall.

Q.—Did he try to see you alone? A.—Yes, he wanted to.

Q.—Did the claimant say to Almy, "I don't know you, but you look like an Almy." A.—I did not hear him.

Q.—Didn't he ask you something about your Aunt Hannah? A.—He asked me where she lived.

Q.—What did you tell him about your Aunt Hannah? A.—I said she lived somewhere in Medford.

Q.—Did you give him your address? A.—No.

Q.—Did you learn later that the claimant had written a letter to your Aunt Hannah after this interview? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you read this letter that I show you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where? A.—At my home in Melrose.

Q.—Who showed it to you? A.—Miss Sarah Almy brought it to me.

Q.—Did you read the testimony given by your Aunt Hannah A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you remember she swore she never saw this letter before she was on the witness stand? A.—No, I thought she said she could not remember seeing it.

Q.—Do you remember what the claimant said about his western life? A.—I was not interested and paid little attention.

Up to Midnight, London Time

Roosevelt to Receive the Freedom of London.

LONDON—The city corporation this afternoon decided to present the honorary freedom of the city to Theodore Roosevelt when he arrives here.

Cuncillor Ernest Lamb moved that the freedom be presented in a gold box "in recognition of the distinguished manner in which he filled the presidency of the United States."

"The eminent services he renderd to the cause of liberty and in promoting amicable relations between foreign countries have made the name Roosevelt one which will always live in history," said Mr. Lamb.

It is planned to hold the ceremonies of conferring the unusual honors in the Guild Hall, if Mr. Roosevelt will accept. Alderman Knight seconded the resolution, which was carried with acclamation.

Persia to Sell Crown Jewels.

ST. PETERSBURG—The Persian Parliament proposes to raise money by selling the crown jewels. The proceeds, however, will be only a drop in the bucket of Persia's financial needs, and she will be forced to accept the Anglo-Russian terms for a loan, which will not be granted without provision for foreign control of the country's finances. Russian troops will remain in Persia until there is evidence that their withdrawal would not be followed speedily by the necessity of reoccupation.

Black Bread in Commons.

LONDON—The German black bread, which was scornfully abused by the Liberals in the recent electoral campaign, has been introduced to the menu of the House of Commons restaurant, where it is demanded by Unionists and traveled members of Parliament, who learned to like it in Germany. It is popular except among the Liberals, who, it is said, refuse to touch it lest they be thought renegades.

Lost Velasquez Recovered.

LONDON—The Rev. J. S. Barrass, rector of a London church and a collector of paintings, says he has discovered the long missing portrait of King Charles I., which was painted by Velasquez in 1623, while the King was visiting Madrid. Those experts who have seen the picture differ, but agree that it is a portrait of Charles I. by a Spanish painter. The canvas is twenty-four by eighteen. He says it had been for sixty years in possession of the family from whom he acquired it.

Zeppelin an Arctic Explorer.

BERLIN—Count Zeppelin will take part personally in an Arctic expedition which will start the coming Summer to investigate wind and weather conditions. If Count Zeppelin is satisfied with the conditions two dirigible balloons will start from Hamburg in 1912 for the purpose of cruising in northern latitudes.

FLOOD LOSS AT HERKIMER IS $1,000,000

UTICA, N. Y., March 3.—Herkimer has been saved from destruction by flood. With the loss well over $1,000,000, the authorities and citizens of the town to-day turned their attention to the fight to prevent epidemic. Disinfectants have been ordered by the ton and plans for their unsparing use prepared against the time when the waters will be low enough.

The food situation is critical, but the people who have been driven from their homes and faced death are optimistic. Every effort is being made to put the roads and railways in shape to carry supplies to the stricken town.

Following the forming of channels through the ice jam in West Canada creek by dynamite the water has subsided to-day and the conditions in the village should approach the normal within the next thirty-six hours.

The crisis found the people of Herkimer in desperate plight. The hundreds of persons who fled on Tuesday and yesterday, abandoning homes and valuables, are coming back.

Mayor T. M. Gorgan said to-day:

"We think that the channels have been opened so that no more high water will be experienced.

"It is expected that the water works will be in operation to-night, and in any event we are assured of a sufficient supply of pure water from Mohawk and Ilion. No one is suffering to-day, and we hope to be able to take care of all who need assistance."

INSURANCE BY BANKS FAILURE, SAYS WINSLOW

Irving Winslow, secretary of the Anti-Imperialist League, to-day told the Insurance Committee of the Legislature that savings bank insurance had been given a fair trial and is a failure in Massachusetts. Mr. Winslow said that only two savings banks of nearly 200 in the State have taken up the system, and it has only been galvanized by the efforts of some employers who haev pursuaded their operatives to become agents.

He advocated the plan of State insurance and said that it was a legitimate and natural function of state. He said it could be worked in connection with manufacturers for insurance against sickness, accidents and for old age pensions. Insurance of employes by employes he considered unfortunate, as it interferes with industrial freedom.

Private competition with the state insurance he thought would be wholesome rather than otherwise.

In opposition to the savings bank insurance system, he said it had no savings gurantee behind it, and even the security of savings banks was not in so good repute now as before the Southbridge failure. Also, he said, counter insurance has not succeeded and the savings banks have had to employ agents to sell policies.

Another point is the investment of funds, which he said should entirely separate from "those operations with which the great financiers use the funds of the small investors in life insurance, and even the savings bank, to effect those great combinations which tend to raise the cost of living for the poor people who furnish the money."

SCAPEGOAT ROYALTY COMING FOR BRIDES

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A crown prince and an elder brother who renounced his succession to the throne are coming to the United States this Summer to search for heiresses to wed. If the younger of them is successful, an American girl may be Queen. They are Crown Prince Alexander of Servia, and his scapegrace brother George, formerly the crown prince. The reason for their visit is that they need the money. Reports of the fabulous wealth of American girls, and their proneness to barter their fortunes for a title, have inspired the brothers to believe that a couple of months' visit will enable them to gain dots sufficient to carry them through many a debauch.

CROCKER WILL FIGHT GOES TO GRAND JURORS

The famous Crocker will case, which for seven years has been before Massachusetts courts and during which time one juryman has served a sentence for receiving a bribe and William J. Hartnett has confesse dthat he tried to bribe jurors, is to be brought before the Suffolk County Grand Jury one week from next Monday.

Uriel H. Crocker's 1900 will was contested in the Probate Court and in two jury trials in the Supreme Court. By this his second wife got the entire income of $800,000, or $40,000, with power to leave it by will to children of the elder Crocker. This will was pronounced invalid.

By the will of 1893, offered for probate by the widow in 1905, she was to get $20,000 a year, half the income. The Crocker sons were to get the balance. She might have taken her widow's dower, one-third of the fortune, or nearly $300,000.

By a codicil of the 1893 will George U. Crocker was to get none of the money while his widow lived.

INSURGENTS ATTACK TAFT TRUST BILL

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A sweeping attack on many features of the administration railroad bill was made in the minority report from the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, which was submitted by Senators Cummins and Clapp in the Senate to-day.

It embodies the principal objections which were entered to the bill by Senators Clapp and Cummins, when the measure was being considered before the commerce committee.

The minority report will be the basis of the fight which will be waged in the Senate and House by the insurgents and others to get the bill amended and made more stringent.

President Taft and the Senate leaders have joined hands to prevent an amendment of the bill except such as may come from themselves. For this reason the minority report and the whole impending fight over the railroad bill takes on great political importance.

HARVARD MAN'S BRIDE THOUGHT WEDDING VOID

That she married her second husband, Ralph Warren Babb, a Lynn high school teacher, believing that her first marriage to Charles Stanley Brown, a wealthy Harvard graduate, was void because she was under age at the time, was the statement made by Mrs. Babb at her home in Lynn to-day when questioned relative to the divorce proceedings brought by Brown at Seattle.

"Brown and I were secretly married in 1901 and never lived together," explained Mrs. Babb. "I was only sixteen years of age at the time, and did not realize what I was doing. When Mr. Babb proposed to me in 1907 I thought that the marriage to Mr. Brown was void, and accordingly accepted my present husband. I am heartbroken over the notoriety that has been given the unfortunate affair."

Mrs. Babb was Francis Sarah Manion, a pretty Somerville girl. She met Brown while he was at Harvard, and after an ardent rapid courtship, secretly married him in 1901. They immediately separated.

Three years ago she married Babb, who is instructor of manual training at the Lynn English High School, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's parents, James Manion, No. 16 Holyoke road, Somerville, by the Rev. Lyman H. Merrill of Stoneham.

Mr. and Mrs. Babb moved to Lynn, taking a pretty cottage at No. 25 Baltimore street. They moved in the best society in Lynn. Their home was near that of Babb's brother, Walter P. Babb, tax collector. A son was born about two years ago.

From the time of her marriage to Brown until a few weeks ago Mrs. Babb says she did not hear from him. Recently she received a letter from his attorney in Seattle saying that Brown, who is now a wealthy mining man, had filed a libel for divorce.

Mrs. Babb will not file an appearance. It is her wish, she said to-day, that Brown secure a divorce as speedily as possible.

BRIDE WHO FLED FROM KIDNAPERS AFTER WEDDING

PUTS SUBWAYS UP TO BOARDS

The Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs to-day reported in the House a resolve to provide that the Railroad Commission and the Boston Transit Commission shall investigate the several matters contained in bills relative to the construction of subways in Boston. The joint commission is to report not later than January 1, 1911. The bills provide for the construction of a subway from Cambridge street to Park street, for the construction of a subway in the West End district, and for the construction of an east and west tunnel and subway.

TAFT'S NIECE TO WED BOSTONIAN

NEW YORK, March 3.—Mrs. Alonzo P. Taft of New York announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Bertha Taft, to Frederick Walter Reid of Boston.

NEWLY-WEDS IN HACK BEAT OUT CHUG CAR

Any time you see a pair of livery nags racing an automobile, bet on the "hosses." There was one grand Ben Hur exhibition last night when Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Clouter, newly-weds, got up behind a team of ancient equines and had a speed test with conspiring friends in a motor car. And they won.

Jesse E. Clouter married Miss Marjorie Dauphinee at her home in London street, East Boston. The Rev. O. E. Marks of Meridian Street Bethel Church performed the ceremony. Clouter had engaged a deep sea-going hack to take him and his bride to the South Station, and after the last shoe was thrown they took to the hack and beat it to the station.

Going to Kidnap 'Em.

Busy friends, however, had other ideas. They were going to kidnap Mr. Newly-Wed and his wife, imprison them in a Boston house and break up the honeymoon right at the start. They knew about the deep sea-going hack and they got an automobile. There was nothing to it.

Newly-Wed got wise the minute he saw the motor car and the busy friends hiking for it. "Beat that bunch," he shouted at the hackman. In these taxicab days, old-fashioned cabbies have a hard time earning their salt, and when this particular Jehu saw a race he made up his mind that it was up to him to show some class.

So he walloped his team and got a flying start while his competitor, the chauffeur, was cranking his machine. The nags sped down the street at a runaway pace, and by the time the cranking operation was over they had two blocks handicap to the good.

Lost the Spark Plug.

The automobile hit up a forty-mile-an-hour pace when it was once started and overhauled the hack. Then somebody got in the way, and while the hack was winding in and out of the crowd the chauffeur lost his spark. He had to crank up again, and once more the hack was in the lead.

The next time he caught up his chain became clogged, and there was more trouble. Next he lost the spark plug. Then something else happened. And by the time the auto reached the South Station Mr. and Mrs. Newly-Wed were somewhere near Hyde Park, shooting along to New York.

INSURED FROM BEING DEPORTED

Joannes Lutas, who arrived from Greece on the Romanic, with his ten-year-old son, testified that before he left Naples he paid $2 to an agent who "insured" the boy against being refused admission to the United States. Lutas has lived in Lowell for some years. He returned to Greece and brought back his son. He declared he intended to put the boy in school, but the officials suspected he really wanted him to work for him.

WHAT WILL WOMEN DO NEXT?

FOUR GENERATIONS UNDER SAME ROOF, ALL WOMEN.

Under the same roof with Mrs. Catherine A. Schomp at Millstone, N. J., are living four generations, all women.

WOMEN LOBBYISTS DISTRIBUTE CIGARS.

Women school teacher lobbyists passed cigars around to men delegates at the National Educational Association in Indianapolis in hope of winning the next convention for Mobile, Ala.

At the same time, inside the convention, delegates were decrying the smoking habit.

OLD INDIAN WOMAN RUNS A MARATHON.

Mrs. Susan Sanders, a three-quarters Cherokee Indian, sixty-five years old, thrilled Washington with a race up Pennsylvania avenue from the Capitol to the White House in record time.

She wanted to see the President before a decision in a $5,000,000 distribution to the Cherokees was rendered, but she didn't. Instead she left a letter.

AT 88, WOMAN SINGS IN OLD-FOLKS QUARTET.

At the celebration of her eighty-eighth birthday Mrs. Mary Denny of West Middleton, Pa., renewed her youth by singing in a quartet with which she had been connected since girlhood. All but one of the quartet were octogenarians and had sung together for more than half a century. The others are Mrs. Sarah Hemphill, eighty-two; Mrs. J. W. Brownlee, seventy-one; and Mrs. Emma Manson, eighty. Of the 100 persons present more than half were over seventy.

WOMAN SELLS HER HAIR FOR STARVING CHILDREN.

Mrs. Bessie Anderson, a young widow with three young children, walked into one of the most fashionable hairdressing establishments in Pittsburg, let down her hair and displayed it to the proprietor.

"I must sell it, or I and my children starve to death. The rent is not paid and there is not a crumb of bread in the house. I cannot bring myself to ask for charity."

"Well, I will give you $50 for that hair, enough to make five switches, if you really must part with it."

WANTS BOSTON WOMEN NOT TO BE MILITANT

"I say to American women: 'Don't be militant suffragists.' Militant methods are bad enough in England, but they would be fatal in America. I am sure practically every man here would refuse out against anything for which such methods were adopted."

Miss Ethel Arnold of England, granddaughter of Dr. Thomas Arnold, the famous Rugby schoolmaster, niece of Matthew Arnold, the poet, and sister of Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the author, issued this warning to American suffragists following her lecture on political affairs in England at the home of Mrs. B. F. Pitman of Brookline.

Incidentally she declared that Boston women have wonderful ability and that it is a shame to keep the talent from them. She called Boston men chivalrous.

Says Get Share of Salary.

Miss Arnold is an ardent suffragist. In her lecture she gave many reasons why women should vote and emphasized the need of an arrangement whereby every woman would get a good share of her husband's salary each week.

She said: "Boston is a delightful city and Bostonians are delightful people. I have many, many friends in Boston. And the women have such ability! Nowhere in all the world have women developed to the extent that they have here. The women's clubs in England are nothing compared with them. You have real generals among your women. It is a shame to keep the suffrage from them.

"And your men are chivalrous. Indeed, yes. They listen when one propounds a theory to them. They do not scoff and laugh and close their ears and refuse to listen, as our men do. Dear me, no. They listen and they nod their heads and they say: 'Well, if all our women want to vote, they can vote.'

Votes For Women Soon.

"That's the spirit that we Englishwomen meet on every side over here, and it is the spirit that makes us feel that here we have a field for our labors which will be productive of the best fruit. If our women show by unanimity that what they want is what is best for them, then they shall have it, say very soon. What more could one ask for? There is no doubt that the American women will have a vote, and that right soon.

"But whatever happens, I would not recommend that American women adopt the militant methods which the English suffragettes have adopted, for they would never work in America. I am not exactly in sympathy with Mrs. Pankhurst's methods, although as a woman I feel her very character. English women are beginning to wake up to the fact that the militant methods obtaining many men whose support might otherwise be enlisted."

LOWELL EX-OFFICIAL DIES IN ASYLUM

WORCESTER, March 3.—An autopsy was held today upon the body of Captain Joseph P. Thompson, eighty-one years old, former registrar of deeds in Lowell, who died in the Worcester Insane Asylum, where he was committed after serving a short part of an eighteen months' sentence in the East Cambridge jail, for the larceny of $1,000 while in office. Captain Thompson was a Civil War veteran and held the office of register of deeds for Northern Middlesex County for thirty-five years. Soon after he was sentenced to jail, Captain Thompson became a mental wreck. When he was tried, his attorneys pleaded that he was suffering from senile insanity.

DEPOSITORS MUST PAY TO USE OWN FUNDS

SOUTHBRIDGE, March 3.—Depositors whose money is tied up in the looted Southbridge Savings bank learned to-day that if they need the money real badly, they may borrow up to 50 per cent. of their savings from the bank trustees by paying for its use the usual rate of interest.

One of the largest depositors declared that the plan of charging depositors interest for the use of their own funds is an injustice. Depositors here are enraged by this new feature of the bank smash.

The news that the trustees would loan the depositors their own money was announced after the trustees had received a letter from Bank Commissioner Chapin at Boston to the effect that because of the legislative inquiry into the bank's affairs, the attorney-general would take no further action at present, and advising them to loan the depositors when they needed the money real badly any amount up to 50 per cent. of the sum credited to them in their pass books.

Depositors Angry.

That this means the payment of interest by the depositors is indicated by a statement from President Calvin D. Paige who said to-day: "At a meeting of the trustees we discussed the bank commissioner's letter and we understand that it means when money is badly needed by any depositor we may loan him as high as 50 per cent. of his holdings for the use of which the trustees will charge interest at the usual rate."

There was a howl of protest from depositors here when this condition of affairs became known.

Expert Robert Campbell of Boston who has been examining the town books has reported to the selectmen that $13,000 of the town funds cannot be accounted for. Over $12,000 of this amount is part of the sewer assessments, concerning which Chairman James K. Egan of the board of sewer commissioners has said ex-Treasurer Hall time and time again failed to make any report.

J. C. F. Wheeler, one of the investigating committee, said to-day that this does not necessarily mean that Hall stole the funds, and that it may be explained by lax bookkeeping.

New Bank Shortage?

It is intimated to-day that the experts employed by the legislative committee to investigate Hall's books as bank treasurer have found mistakes in the work of the experts employed by the savings bank [illegible] were first discovered. This is taken to mean that the bank shortage may be even larger than the $442,000 [illegible] is accused of stealing. Mr. Bishop of the firm of Strachan, Storer, [illegible] ing the bank books, would neither affirm nor deny the report he had found discrepancies in the work of the former experts.

Because the experts have not finished the report they are to make to the legislative committee it is not expected that the committee will return here until next week. The probe will be resumed at the earliest possible moment according to the members of the committee.

DIRECT LEGISLATION DEMANDED BY PEOPLE, DECLARES W. S. BUTLER

Boston voters and Massachusetts legislators are discussing with great interest the strong argument that William S. Butler, the Boston business man, made in favor of initiative, referendum and direct legislation before the legislative Committee on Constitutional Amendments at the State [House. Com]paring the methods of direct legislation defined issues and allowed each voter to speak his mind in the government. Comparing the methods of direct legislation to the methods in practice in the business world, Mr. Butler declared that business men had found such systems highly successful, profitable and satisfactory.

The committee took up the resolve which provides that the Governor's veto shall not extend to the measures approved by the people, that the first power of initiative shall be reserved by the people and that the second power shall be referendum.

Mr. Butler said:

Must Represent People.

"If our government is to continue to be a government of the people we must devise some way by which the electorate may take a more real and intelligent part in it than as at present. In our elections as at present conducted the issues are mixed and obscured. Often to obtain one desired effect we must submit to other undesirable laws; or in attacking one evil we find ourselves obliged to disapprove good things.

"Direct legislation defines issues and allows us to approve or disapprove each single issue. In practice it has proved conservative and a welcome guide and relief to the legislator. It can be demonstrated that it is a simple, feasible and logical return to the government of our fathers.

"The most successful men of to-day are introducing methods in their business which are in effect direct legislation and find them most profitable. If such be the case in business, where any false systems introduced into its delicate machinery may lead to irretrievable disaster, its introduction into government must be of great benefit.

"It is my belief that vested interests are safer under the electorate trained by direct legislation than as now, when they are subject to the sudden upheavals and the bursting of pent-up volcanoes of popular discontent, now without means to express itself intelligently and clearly."

No Opposition to Bill.

Among the others who spoke in favor of the bill were: Henry Sterling, representing the State Branch of the American Federation of Labor; Arthur M. Huddell of the Central Labor Union; Prof. Humphrey Adams of Harvard; Robert Treat Paine, Jr., Spencer Hartley, John E. Potts, representing the Boston Carpenters' District Council; Charles M. Cox of of the Boston Chamber of Commerce; Prof. Lewis Johnson of Harvard College, T. J. Reagan of the Lowell Central Labor Union, James F. Carey, representing the Socialist Party clubs, and Messrs La Francis and Wrenn, for the Springfield Central Labor Union.

There was no opposition to the bill. John Weaver Sherman, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Massachusetts State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, was in charge of the hearing, which was the result of the work of that body.

BARTENDERS GO OUT ON STRIKE

The bartenders employed by Peter Chatlick, who conducts a saloon at the corner of A and First stret, South Boston, and P. Tivnan & Co. of No. 725 Dorchester avenue, South Boston went on strike to-day for the new wage scale of $18 per week on a sixty-hour basis. Both concerns refused to sign the agreement of Local No. 7 of the Bartenders' Union, claiming that they were conected with the Suffolk County Liquor Dealers' Association, and were ordered by that body not to sign anything for fear of losing their licenses. Fifteen other places, according to the committee on wage scale of the union, are given until to-morrow morning to declare their intentions.

MAKE WAR ON WHITE PLAGUE

Plans for aggressive local campaigns against the "great white plague" were threshed out in the Massachusetts Conference on Tuberculosis that began in the rooms of the Twentieth Century Club to-day. Dr. Charles S. Millet of Brockton gave pointers on the methods and means of reducing the number of cases to a minimum and the proper treatment of the afflicted. Dr. Mark W. Richardson, secretary of the State Board of Health, gave a talk on "The Control and Care of Tuberculosis as Affected by the Laws of the Commonwealth."

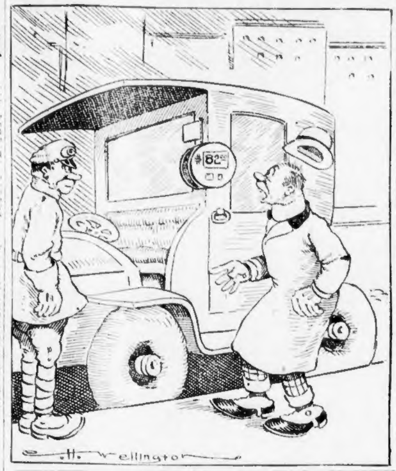

Alexander M. Wilson, secretary of the Boston Association for the Relief of and Control of Tuberculosis, concluded the conference with a paper on "The Relation Between State and Local Work for Advanced Cases."

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM DYSPEPSIA,

Indigestion, Sick Headaches, Biliousness, Constipation, Poor Appetite or Heartburn if you will only use the friendly aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Take a dose before each meal for a few days and notice the improvement in your general health. Hundreds of grateful people have written us that the results from this famous medicine have been marvelous, often giving relief after all else had failed. We believe that such an experience will come to every sufferer who will give it a fair trial. Be persuaded to make the effort, and start to-day, for delay only aggravates matters and makes a cure so much harder. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is backed by a substantial record in cases of Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowel disorders and is also very effective in cases of Chills, Colds, Grippe and Malaria, Fever and Ague. All Druggists.

LODGE STOPS HAT-PASSING

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A plan originated by Senator Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, to pass the hat and raise a fund to purchase a cane for Colonel James Gordon of Mississippi has stirred up the Senate. Mr. Gore called a page and started him around requesting Senators to chip in. A dozen or fifteen had dived into their jeans when an attache rushed out to the sergeant-at-arms and told him that Senator Lodge had filed a complaint and asked that the collection of funds in the Senate chamber cease.

Col. Ransdell hastened in to see Mr. Lodge, who said that such an innovation was beneath the dignity of the Senate. The Colonel agreed, but intimated that it would be awkward for him to interfere. Senator Lodge hopped to his feet and soon was telling Mr. Money, the minority leader, about the impropriety being pulled off right under his nose. Senator Money slipped around and diplomatically told Mr. Gore that the hat could not be passed in the Senate chamber.

Senator Gore gave instructions that the money collected be returned to the Senators. He declared that he would secure the contributions from Senator's outside the chamber.

MILK DRIVER IS FINED $155

The heaviest fine ever imposed in the Dorchester Municipal Court for the sale of impure milk was made to-day by Judge Churchill for the sum of $155 against Frank L. Dinsmore, a driver for the Elm Farm Milk Company.

Dinsmore was fined on four counts: Milk below standard quality, $15; a second similar charge, watered milk, $50, and a third charge for the same offence of $75. He appealed and was held in $200.

Walter S. Dennis was fined $15 for the alleged sale of impure milk, and E. C. Forsythe was fined the same amount for a similar offence. The charges were brought by Inspector James O. Jordan of the Board of Health.

O'MEARA GIVES POLICE FORCE BIG SHAKEUP

Police Commissioner O'Meara's big shift in the police department to-day goes into effect. The policemen and officers of the force are pleased at many of the changes which are announced. A new captain, two new lieutenants and a new sergeant are made. There are several important transfers.

Lieutenant John E. Driscoll of the East Dedham street station is made captain. He fills the vacancy caused by the retirement of Captain C. A. Swan, formerly of Station 11, Dorchester. The new captain starts upon his higher duties this afternoon. He takes the chair now occupied by Captain George A. Hall. Captain Hall goes to the Dorchester station.

Sergeant Francis J. Hird of the harbor police became a lieutenant to-day, and he works at Station 8. Sergeant Michael H. Crowley of Station 3 is now a lieutenant and takes Lieutenant Driscoll's chair.

Patrolman Amasa C. Augusta of Division 11, becomes a Sergeant at the Roxbury Crossing station. Captain George A. Hall goes from headquarters to Dorchester. Sergeant Michael Sullivan leaves Roxbury Crossing station and is stationed at Joy street.

Patrolman Wilson Cordiner moves from Court square to Station 11. Patrolman James A. McKenna goes from East Boston to Station 1, and Patrolman Coleman Sullivan from Charlestown to Hanover street.

Several of Commissioner O'Meara's shifts and promotions in the force are most favorably commented upon to-day. The promotion of Sergeant Crowley to a lieutenancy is one of the most popular of the moves. The new lieutenant has long been an efficient member of the force and has done fine work in both the West and South Ends. His work on the Jordan case was especially swift and brainy.

The lieutenant was born in South Boston, January 18, 1866. He went to the South Boston public schools, and was appointed a reserve man on December 13, 1888. A year later he became a patrolman, and in December, 1895, he went to headquarters. In 1897 he went to Station 5, and two and one-half years ago he went to Joy street.

Captain Driscoll was born in South Boston, November 2, 1855. He received a public school education and became a patrolman on July 1, 1895. His first work was in Division 1. In 1901 he became a Sergeant and went to Station 4 and three years ago he became a lieutenant at Station 5.

30,000 IDLE WOMEN IN THE BAY STATE

Miss Mary O'Reilly says that there are 30,000 women and girls in this State who need employment with which to support themselves, but who are to-day in enforced idleness.

A guest at the Woman's Club Conference at the Central Congregational Church, Jamaica Plain, yesterday, Miss O'Reilly spoke about "Working Girls." She said that there were 150,000 wage earning women in this State, two-thirds of them being under thirty years of age, and that twenty percent of them were idle just because they couldn't get work.

She said that the wage earning of the girls began as soon as they could get certificates that they were sixteen years of age. "These girls are eagerly sought by large employer of female help," said Miss O'Reilly, "because they are cheap, alert, ambitious and dependably ignorant of their own rights and privileges.

"Girl workers go into the industries in four groups. First, a pitifully small number choose the trade; the second, turned out by misfortune, take the first thing offered; the third are born to work and accept anything that comes without energy or interest; and the fourth are girls who have been stunted by malnutrition or defective minds or bodies and who work only under pressure.

"Many excellent people expect poverty to be interesting when it is a little ragged and the working girl is almost never ragged. No working woman wants charity. To-day a very large part of our unprotected girl workers earn wages that will not supply the urgent needs of life. They work to the extreme limit of endurance under conditions that make it impossible to obey the elementary laws of health."

MRS. ASTOR TO GET $50,000 A YEAR

NEW YORK, March 3.—It is stated that Mrs. Ava Willing Astor has agreed to accept an allowance of $50,000 a year from Colonel John Jacob Astor, following her divorce. The smallness of the amount is a surprise to her friends. It had been rumored that she wanted twice that sum.

It is said that Colonel Astor's lawyers held out positively against making any sum higher than $50,000 and that this left Mrs. Astor the alternative of accepting it or letting her interlocutory decree automatically lapse and going into court on a straight fight for alimony, a proceeding which could have reopened the whole case.

WOMEN RALLY TO AID WOMAN IN ELECTION

"Suffragists, hortative,"—that's the latest in Scituate.

The women of the town are going to vote, so there, but they want it distinctly understood that they are not "Suffragettes, militant."

The trouble is all about the election of a member of the School Board. A woman member having resigned, the edict has gone forth that a woman must be elected to fill the vacancy.

The women, accordingly, supported the candidacy of Mrs. Mary A. Doherty, who is a graduate of the Boston Normal School, a former teacher in the Boston public schools, an occasional teacher in the Scituate schools, and withal a talented, up-to-date and widely traveled woman.

Presto—two of the young men of the town thought they'd like to open the mail up in the school committee room, and they announced that they were candidates and didn't propose to let any woman "cop the job."

Anything like that always gets the women all stirred up, so away went the campaigning, and up to the town offices went the women to get registered.

One reason in particular why they say Mrs. Doherty should be elected is that she at present has five young sons and daughters attending the Scituate schools. Mrs. Doherty has traveled around the world, residing in England and Australia, visited the leading cities of Europe and all the points of interest in the Orient. She has given several lectures before women's clubs in various places upon her travels.

During recent years she has taught frequently as a substitute in the local schools, her education at Boston Normal and experience in the Boston schools making her particularly well fitted for the position.

But if you want to start something in Scituate just call the women voters "Suffragettes." They're "Suffragists," understand.

DAM GOES OUT, BRIDGES FALL

WOODSTOCK, Vt., March 3.—Considerable anxiety was felt here to-day when the ice went out of the pond at West Woodstock, carrying the dam with it. James Wardwell was caught by the flood and ice and his horse killed.

Two bridges were carried away on the East River branch, one about a mile above Gassett's Station and one near Lydia Adams Farm at Chester.

In several places the roads are impassable owing to the blocks of ice which had overflowed and formed a jam. Nearly all the streams are clear of ice and unless the rain continues no further damage is looked for.

BALTIMORE & OHIO STRIKE SEEMS SURE

BALTIMORE, March 3.—A strike of Baltimore & Ohio trainmen now looks inevitable. Ninety per cent of the men voted to reject the company's proposition. The strike question was left with the committee and after a conference with the company's officials all negotiations were broken off.

KILLS WOMAN AND THEN TRIES SUICIDE

NEW YORK, March 3.—With a bullet in his head, Albert Bensemo to-day walked to a police station. "You must want me. I've just killed a woman," he said. The woman was Mary Rosler, a dressmaker. He had shot her four times. Jealousy was the motive. Bensemo was taken to Flower Hospital in a critical condition.

APPOINT PARK MEN APRIL 5

The Mayor's office was notified to-day by the clerk of the Supreme Court that April 15 has been set as the date for the appointment of three apportionment commissioners to estimate the cost to the cities and towns of the Metropolitan district for the maintainance of the Metropolitan park system.

As soon as appointed these commissioners will hold hearings at which representatives of cities and towns will be heard. Mayor Fitzgerald will appear at these hearings and advocate the reduction of the Boston assesment. He maintains that the proportion of the cost of maintainance which Boston is compelled to pay is excessive. The assessment for the past five years was based on the valuation, which forced Boston to pay 62½ per cent.

The Mayor's belief is that with Boston supporting its own park system, it should not be forced to pay so much of the Metropolitan expense.

BEEF TRUST AGENT PLEADS NOT GUILTY

NEW YORK, March 3.—Frederick B. Cooper, the New Jersey agent of Swift & Co., who was recently indicted by the Hudson County grand jury, appeared before Judges Blair and Cary to-day and entered a plea of not guilty. Bail, fixed at $2,500, was furnished.

Heard in a German Restaurant.

"I say, old scout, this outdoes Falstaff. Goodliver's check calls for Pumpernickel 5c., Swiss Cheese 10c., and P. B. Lager $1.85, $2 in all. Goodliver is evidently a connoisseur as well as a man of capacity."

EARTH SHOCK FELT AT SARANAC LAKE

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., March 3.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here early to-day. The inhabitants were thrown into panic, but no damage was reported.

MRS. GLOVER FAILS TO CLEAR MYSTERY OF LAUNDRY TRAGEDY

Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, who took the witness stand again to-day for the fourth time in the Glover will contest, has failed to shred any light on one of the most mysterious incidents of the sordid laundry murder, in which the life of her husband was flashed out with a bullet.

Who called up the hospital of Dr. Nicholas W. Cousens about midnight on November 20—just about the time the spirit of Clarence F. Glover was leaving its torn tenement—and asked:

"Did he implicate his wife?"

Mrs. Glover returned home from the hospital, reaching her residence about 11:30, she said. She had been told when she left the hospital that her husband was very low. That was 11 o'clock. She was accompanied home by a man named McCarthy. They stopped at the gate at her home and talked several minutes with Policeman Tully. After they went into the house Mrs. Glover asked McCarthy to telephone the hospital and ask about her husband.

McCarthy Called Hospital.

Mrs. Glover said that she heard what McCarthy said. She said he did not ask if Mr. Glover was dead yet and that he did not ask the question, "Did he implicate his wife?" or words to that effect.

"McCarthy left the house about five minutes of 12," testified Mrs. Glover. "Just after he left Mrs. George A. Freeman came. Half an hour after that Mr. Freeman came to the house. When Mr. McCarthy called up the hospital my husband was still living, but he was very low.

"Mr. Freeman, Mrs. Freeman and I remained in the house that night. We slept in the 'den.' Mrs. Freeman and I slept on the couch and Mr. Freeman in a Morris chair. None of us took off any of our clothing. We did not go to sleep until 3 or 4 in the morning."

Mrs. Glover declared that the first time she heard that her husband had been shot was about 9:20 o'clock, when Police Sergeant Curran called at the house. Curran told Mrs. Glover that her husband had been shot. She exclaimed, "Oh, my Lord!" and sat down on the stairs.

Mistaken for the Girl.

Then the policemen declared that Glover had been shot in the laundry. Mrs. Glover said that that could not have been true, because she had been there all evening. She declared on the stand that when she referred to the laundry she thought Curran meant the laundry in her house and not the laundry of which Glover was the proprietor. The woman explained that her laundry consisted of a set tub. Continuing, Mrs Glover said:

"He asked where Hattie was. He asked if she was out. Then he said that I was Hattie Le Blanc. I said that I was not. I said that I was Mrs. Glover. Then he called in the Rev. Mr. Stackpole and he identified me as Mrs. Glover. I asked him where my husband was and if I could see him. He said at Dr. Cousens' hospital, and then started off."

Mrs. Glover said that she was anxious to find the murderer of her husband, but that she did not participate in the search of her home that night because she did not feel able.

Didn't See Hattie.

"I did not know that Hattie was in the house; that she was under the bed, and I did not see or hear her until she was discovered on Tuesday evening by the police," testified Mrs. Glover.

Lawyer Scott asked about the meals the next day at the house. Suddenly he inquired if Hattie were not at the table. The question seemed to surprise Mrs. Glover. She answered with a show of indignation that she was not.

Just as the court closed yesterday Lawyer Scott gave a mysterious reference to the contention of the contestants of the will as to why Mrs. Glover did not send Hattie Le Blanc back to Nova Scotia. Mr. Scott said:

"Mrs. Glover has given the reason why she did not send Hattie back home was because she did not have anyone to go with her to West Arichat. She now says that Hattie's two other sisters came here accompanied by a man and a woman. We propose to show that this is absolutely untrue. We further propose to show the improbability of the contention of Mrs. Glover as to the alleged reason she didn't send Hattie home to her mother."

It is believed that the promised testimony of Scott will prove very sensational.

EASIER TO PREVENT

Most physicians are agreed that the best way to combat most ills is by the indirect method of stimulating the body's natural powers in fighting and destroying the germs of disease. Consumption, for example, is much easier to prevent than it is to cure, and throughout the land a determined warfare is being waged to lessen the danger of infection by this insidious disease. Coughs and colds are a prolific source and should not be neglected.

At the first sign of a cold steps should be taken to check it at once, and this can best be done with a simple mixture of two ounces of Glycerine, a half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and eight ounces of pure Whiskey. These can be mixed together in a large bottle. Shake well and take a teaspoonful every four hours. It is claimed by the Leach Chemical Co., of Cincinnati, who prepare the Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure for dispensing through druggists, that this mixture will break up a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable.

BAFFLING DEATH MYSTERY ANALYZED BY FUTRELLE

slip of a girl, a French-Canadian speaking very little English, vanished. Soon after midnight Glover died. He did not see his wife again. She came to him when informed by the police that he had been wounded, but did not see him.

Glover was buried on the afternoon of the Tuesday following. On that night Hattie Le Blanc, who had been sought ceaselessly, was dragged out from beneath Glover's own bed, in Glover's own house, by the police. She was disheveled, terrorized, speechless, and apparently exhausted from lack of food. Through an interpreter she denied having shot Glover, admitting at the same time that she had gone to the laundry to meet him, by arrangement. She heard a shot there, she said, and it frightened her. She leaped from a window and escaped. From that time until the moment of her discovery she had been hiding in the Glover home, according to her own statement. Between these times the Glover house had been searched at least once, that about one o'clock of the night of the murder.

Placed Under Severe Grilling.

By Glover's will he left three-quarters of his estate to his wife, Lillian Marie Glover, and the other quarter to one of his several brothers, Seymour Glover. The remaining brothers brought action to break the will, alleging that Glover had been murdered, and accusations were made against the widow. That widow now is telling her story in the Probate Court in East Cambridge. For the time, Hattie Le Blanc, in prison charged with the murder of Glover, is forgotten; the widow is the central figure in the mystery. For two days she has been on the stand. How long she will remain there none, as yet, can say.

It's a room of soft shadows, this place to which the investigation has been transferred—soft shadows and silences. For hour after hour the spectators, principally women, sit motionless, absorbed, listening, staring. Occasionally there is a flash of excitement, a buzzing, instantly quelled by the peremptory pencil rap of a court officer; and again a titter at some sharp exchange of courtesies between counsel, and then silence, save for the monotone of questioning and the monotone of reply.

Through it all Mrs. Glover sits placidly, inscrutably, her eyes fixed on her inquistor, her slender gloved hands at rest on her lap, her face in perfect repose, the folds of her black gown motionless. There is a haunting suggestion of the stoicism of the Indian in the strong lines of her face, silhouetted by the glare of a window directly behind her, and utter self possession. She never smiles, she always answers promptly, and tersely, the tone of her voice is never raised and the lines of her mouth unbroken by the slightest termor.

Pen Picture of Lawyer Scott.

Pacing back and forth in the narrow space between the counsel's table and the press table Attorney John J. Scott, appearing for the plaintiffs, conducts the examination.

He is quiet of voice, sturdy of build, and the monotone of his questioning never varies except occasionally at some point he turns sharply, the droop falls away from his big shoulders, a hand is raised and there is a challenge in his manner.

He is prone to smile, is Mr. Scott, to smile at unexpected moments; but there is never an answering flicker of amusement in Mrs. Glover's face—she leaves that to her counsel. Judge McIntire, presiding, rarely raises his eyes except at some objection of counsel or when he addresses some direct question to the witness.

Mrs. Glover's story yesterday had to do with the events of the night of the murder, principally. She told of receiving news of the shooting of her husband, brought to her by a policeman, and of going to the private hospital of Dr. Cousens, where the wounded man lay. There she saw Dr. Cousens in person.

"I told him I would like to see my husband," she explained. "Dr. Cousens went up stairs, then came back and said it was all right —I could go up. I then said I felt faint and Dr. Cousens placed me in a chair."

"You told the doctor you were not able to see Mr. Glover?"

"Yes."

"You couldn't see him at the time because you were weak and faint?"

Jacques Futrelle.

Well-known author and expert criminologist who analyzes Glover case for the American.

"Yes."

She sat in the front room, meanwhile, she explained. There was a young man there. They talked together, about fishing, and hunting and the afternoon's football game between Yale and Harvard. She related to him, too, the fact that she had once undergone a severe surgical operation, and couldn't stand the sight of blood.

"Was that the reason you didn't go up to see Mr. Glover?"

"Yes."

Question Over Telephone Call.

From that point Mr. Scott proceeded to probe the question as to who had called up Dr. Cousens on the telephone after the wife returned to her home, not having seen her husband.

"Do you know of anyone who called up the hospital about 11 o'clock and inquired as to Mr. Glover's condition?"

"No."

Between 12 and 1 o'clock, she said, Mr. McCarthy, who had accompanied her home, called up at her request.

"Did he say 'Did he implicate his wife?' or words to that effect?"

"He did not."

She told of the search of the house about 1 o'clock Sunday morning, this being about four hours after Glover was shot and a few minutes after his death—a search made for Hattie Le Blanc. She did not go into the rooms with the officers, but presumed it was thorough that they had looked under all the beds.

Then the testimony took a different turn. On Sunday and Monday during the day Hattie LeBlanc's sisters called at her house. She received them once in the den, and one of the sisters lay down on the couch. At this time, she testified, Hattie's gloves and fur pieces were in the house—the fur pieces in the closet in the den and the gloves in a drawer. She showed the gloves to one of the sisters and later on showed the fur pieces and muff to the police.

"Was Hattie's hat pin lying on the window sill in the den?"

"No."

At practically this point the day's session ended.

Widow Accused of Causing Glover's Death.

Attorneys for the brothers of Clarence F. Glover, in specifications in court, have charged that Mrs. Glover, widow of the murdered man, caused the death of her husband, this being one of the principal arguments in the effort to break Glover's will. Glover himself, dying, declared that Hattie Le Blanc shot him; Hattie Le Blanc, in her statement at the time of her capture in the Glover home, denied that she shot him.

In court yesterday Mr. Scott asked Mrs. Glover:

"You never knew at any time Hattie Le Blanc was under a bed in the house?"

"No."

"Did you see Hattie La Blanc from the time she left your house Saturday evening until she was found beneath the bed?"

"I did not."

"With whom did you eat supper that Sunday night?"

"I sat with Mrs. Freeman in the kitchen."

"Did Hattie La Blanc sit down with you at that time?"

"She did not."

Hattie La Blanc's sisters were in the Glover house on Monday. One of them, Irene, lay down on a couch to rest, at Mrs. Glover's invitation.

"Did you show them Hattie's furs?"

"I did not."

"Did you show them Hattie's gloves?"

"I did, because they were new gloves and Hattie said she had paid $1.15 for them a few days back."

"Why did you open the door to the closet where the furs were?"

"Because the police wanted to see them."

"Did you not say to the sisters, 'Hattie is not far from here,' and then laugh?"

"I did not."

"Why did you cover up Irene's head?"

"I do not think I did."

"Will you swear you didn't?"

"I might have."

"Was it because someone was in the house you wanted to transfer to a specific place for a specific purpose and not have her see it?"

"No."

Killing Occurred on Day of the Yale Game.

The great Yale-Harvard football game took place on the afternoon of the night Glover was murdered—November 20. It was an exceptionally warm day for the season. The official weather report of the late afternoon and early evening of November 20 is as follows:

5 p. m.	53
7 p. m.	52
8 p. m.	51
9 p. m.	50
10 p. m.	50

There was little wind—ten or twelve miles an hour—so the weather report says.

Hattie Le Blanc left the Glover house to meet Glover at about 8 o'clock, when the temperature was 51. Furs were unnecessary for comfort, and she carried a latchkey.

Heard Nothing of Girl, Though in the House.

The police searched the Glover house about 1 o'clock—four hours after the shooting. According to the girl's own story she had been in the house since the time of the shooting until she was found Tuesday night. It is a small house, and during most of that time Mrs. Glover and her friends, the Freemans, were there. Mrs. Glover says they heard nothing to indicate the presence of another person; and no food was missed.

Mrs. Glover's testimony is a denial of all knowledge of the girl's whereabouts from Saturday night until Tuesday. Beyond the preliminary statement that she was there all the time the girl has said nothing.

Social Notes

PELLETIER CALLS COLEMAN BEFORE THE GRAND JURY

FEDERAL GOVERMENT ALSO BEGINS INVESTIGATION INTO WORK OF NOTORIOUS GANG

Syndicate" and the District Attorney resumed his inquiry this afternoon.

Cronin Excused To-day.

John J. Cronin, one of the lawyers for George W. Coleman, was particularly desired at the District Attorney's office this afternoon, but he pleaded a professional engagement and was excused.

Charles S. Beattie, a loan broker, has told Mr. Pelletier that Cronin introduced him to John P. Nowell, who tried to show him the "faro trimming" game. Nowell was questioned by the District Attorney and denied it. Pelletier wants Cronin's story. He also wants to ask him about the report that he was engaged by members of the "Bunco Syndicate" to defend Coleman.

Another point on which the district attorney desires information from Cronin is litigation of two years ago which may connect at least one more man with the "Bunco Syndicate." In 1906 a man of thirty, well dressed [illegible], traveling under the name of Frederic Jackson, appeared in Boston and soon became a companion of Martin Walsh, "Doc" Owen, E. R. McPherson and John R. Marshall, all members of the gang.

Jackson was a sleek individual and soon became one of the best "steerers" of the "syndicate," according to current report. But he was accused of "welching" and got in bad favor with the swindlers. At that he was still in good standing when a note broker had him arrested in 1908 on two charges of larceny. He was defended by John J. Cronin. Jackson was tried before Judge Murray and was discharged.

"Don't Pinch Me To-night."

Later though, when Jackson was in bad standing with the "syndicate," Cronin sued him for $300 and John R. Marshall filed a claim of $210 "on account of services." At that particular time, Jackson was alleged to be working in competition with the gang. And one night when he was about to leave his hotel to "put one over" in New York, Cronin headed him off with an arrest in mesne process. Cronin was then represented by Lawyer Abram J. Berkowitz.

When the officers approached Jackson the young man drew $5,000 from his pocket and remarked:

"Don't pinch me to-night. I had a good night last night in New York. I made $2,500 and I can make $2,500 more tonight—maybe $5,000 more. I'll put up as part of this roll as cash bail, but I must get to New York to-night."

They sent for Sam Weiss, a friend, and Jackson left $300 with Weiss to cover possible judgment. He gave satisfactory bail and went to New York. That was the last seen of him in Boston.

The Marshall suit went on and later both Marshall and Cronin attached the $300 in Weiss's possession. Creditors also petitioned that Jackson be declared an involuntary bankrupt, and that proceeding is still pending.

One of Jackson's lawyers was asked to-day what kind of man he was.

"Oh, he's like the rest of them," the lawyer replied.

"Is he a gambler?" he was asked.

"Oh, no," laughed the lawyer. "They're not gamblers at all; they're 'sure-thing' men."

Coleman Also Called.

Pelletier also summonsed Coleman himself to appear this afternoon. The young bookkeeper is in a ticklish position, because if he should admit being fleeced it would jeopardize his defence in the Cambridge case. He is in the hands of his counsel.

Knight & Teranne of the Hotel Vendome appeared at the District Attorney's office. A prominent investment agent, a rich South Boston liquor dealer, a well-to-do publisher and several other prominent men appeared at Pemberton square to-day.

District Attorney Pelletier said that besides the sworn statements made, because of the publicity of the case he had received a large number of communications from well-known men who said they would not appear publicly, but would tell him and the police privately what they knew. They will be interviewed by Assistant District Attorney Lavelle and Police Captain Armstrong.

Pelletier declared that he would lay the cases before the Grand Jury next week.

A similar investigation is being made by United States District Attorney French. A number of United States secret service agents, acting upon the request of Mr. French, are interviewing the alleged victims of the swindling game and those who were approached unsuccessfully.

District Attorney Pelletier has interviewed at his office nine men who have been named as victims of the gang or as having had the faro bank swindle submitted to them.

The nine who responded to the request of the District Attorney are John M. Graham, president of the International Trust Company; Max Ratshesky, a member of the Boston Stock Exchange; Charles W. Beatty, a note broker; Andreas Tomfohrde, a Court street restaurateur; Andrew Granara, a North End undertaker; Charles H. Davis, Washington street jeweler; D. M. Bristol, a Winthrop merchant; Daniel L. White, a music publisher, and John T. Nowell, an insurance agent of Brookline.

News to Graham.

After leaving the office of the District Attorney John M. Graham said that a mistake had been made by the persons who used his name as that of a bunco victim. He said he told Mr. Pelletier that he had not heard of the faro swindle until he had read of it in the newspapers. His name must have been confused with that of another, he said. Mr. Graham added that he had never played any game of chance.

Max Ratchesky said that he knew nothing of the swindle, and that he wouldn't have bitten at it. His broker friends had been joking him about the bunco game, he said, and he supposed that someone who overheard their joking took it seriously.

Tried it on Tomfohrde.

Andreas Tomfohrde told the district attorney that about two years ago he was approached by two of the swindlers, who tried to interest him in "a man who was sore on a faro bank and could break it." Mr. Tomfohrde said that he recognized the proposition as a swindle, and refused to have anything to do with it.

C. W. Beatty's story was of considerable interest to the district attorney. He told of having been approached by a man whose note he had bought, with the information that a friend could put him in the way of making a killing, and introduced him to a man who tried to get him to go to New York to go up against the faro bank. Mr. Beatty gave Mr. Pelletier the names of the men who made the proposition.

Daniel L. White said that he had been asked to advance money for use in the game, but refused to listen to the proposition.

Granara Loaned Keliher.

Andrew Granara said that he once loaned "Big Bill" Keliher $2,000 on a mortgage on a saloon in Charlestown which Keliher owned. Keliher, he said, told him that he wanted the money to use in trying to break a faro bank with. He went to New York with Keliher, he said, and remained in a hotel while Keliher was out, apparently trying to break the bank. When Keliher returned he said that he had lost the money, and the two came back to Boston.

Delos M. Bristol of Winthrop told the District Attorney the same story as published in the BOSTON AMERICAN concerning his grabbing $2,500 of the swindlers' money and being advised to give it back by Chief Inspector Watts.

John F. Nowell said that he never had dealings with the faro crowd.

Charles H. Davis said that he could not understand why the District Attorney had sent for him, as he knew nothing of the gang or any of its methods.

Captain Ainsley H. Armstrong is engaged in the work of securing witnesses for the District Attorney.

Up to the Victims.

Twenty others who have been named as having been approached by the swindlers will be called by the District Attorney today.

Mr. Pelletier wishes it understood that the successful prosecution of the swindlers is up to the public and the victims of the gang. "Unless the victims of the gang come to this office and tell their stories," he said, "we will be greatly handicapped in securing indictments for the individuals.

"I am going to sift this affair thoroughly, and if these men are guilty I will send them to prison. I am satisfied that there is law enough to cover the crime, if we can get the evidence."

TACK THIS UP

Every Winter this prescription is published here and thousands have been benefited by it. "Get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful of this mixture after each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle well each time." But be sure to get only the genuine Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a tin screw-top case. Any druggist has on hand or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. Many other pine extracts are impure and cause nausea.

CAN YOU BEAT IT!

Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara was asked what the Police Department intended to do about the operations of the Boston "Bunco Syndicate." He replied:

"That is not my business. That doesn't come under me. It is routine business. You will have to see the Superintendent about it."

Superintendent William H. Pierce was then asked the same question. His reply was:

"That isn't my business. It isn't my province. It is a matter of routine. See the Deputy Superintendent."

Deputy Superintendent W. B. Watts was next questioned. He replied:

"Yes, the matter is in my hands. I have been informed about it and the Police Department is now at work."

Fortunately the city of Boston has one more court of appeal—the District Attorney's office—and District Attorney Pelletier has begun an investigation over the heads of the city police.

COLEMAN IS HAPPY TO BE HOME AGAIN; FINDS FRIENDS TRUE

"The truth is, I am feeling better now than at any time before in some years," was George W. Coleman's frank comment, given with an air of relief, when he talked to-day for the first time about the failure of the National City Bank of Cambridge and his arrest on the charge of falsifying its accounts to the extent of "not less than $160,000."

Young Coleman seemed to be at ease after a long period of worry. But he is only twenty-four, and at that age cares come and go quickly. Coleman showed a boy's evident comfort in being home again with his family, at No. 136 Magazine street, Cambridge, after his career of anxiety and bustle and the enjoyment of life as he saw it.

"I'm glad," he said, "to be back with my family, where there is true comfort and true affection."

Happy to Be Home Again.

The youth looked serious, as if he realized thoroughly the folly of substituting other friendships for that of home. He had spent four lively years mainly with those who traveled a killing pace, and doubtless his thoughts did not have much chance to turn back from the surroundings he found.

Now, he has a chance to reflect, and when he talked he showed that his mind was back at a normal balance.

"I'm just turning twenty-four," he remarked. "I'm the oldest of six boys"—and as a tall, handsome youth entered the room, George introduced him, saying: "This is the next oldest brother, and he is one of my best legal advisers in my present difficulty." Coleman referred to him chaffingly as the eminent musician of the family.

"I am in the best frame of mind for a long time," he said, earnestly. "Of course, I can't tell how the outside world feels. But I am home, and in the hands of those who know what will be best to do, and that is a whole lot.

Old Friends Still True.

"We are making a lot of arrangements with counsel, and, of course, don't know just what to say or do. They will know, and I shall be guided entirely by them.

"Since coming home, too, after being bailed, I have learned that all of my old time friends, at least, have not gone back on me, and this cheers me more than I can tell."

Naturally, Coleman would not talk about the bank failure, because he has been advised by his counsel not to discuss it with anybody. Both he and and his parents are willing that he go to the bank and give any assistance in his power in the examination of the books. But his attorney has advised even against that, at this time.

It is the mother who suffers most, but Mrs. Coleman has done the best she can to keep her son cheerful in this crisis, and has kept her own feelings to herself. Only once, during the talk with Coleman, did she remark: "George doesn't look like a criminal; do you think?"

Mother Cheers Son.

And, without waiting for an answer, she said, impulsively: "Oh, the pity of it. If only those in responsible positions had done their duty this would never have occurred."

The intimation was plain. It was clear that she meant that if the bank examiners and directors had paid strict attention to everything in the bank, few discrepancies could have occurred.

Coleman is boyish looking, with keen, bright, youthful eyes and a ruddy countenance brimming with health, spirits, contentment and good feeling towards the world. Perhaps that disposition may have much to do with his downfall.

"Everybody likes George and he likes everybody," is the way one of his friends put it to-day.

His father is his staunch friend and adviser. "Give us a little time to think it over and talk it over," said the father, Walter G. Coleman, who is a prominent and wealthy Cambridge man.

"For the present none of us knows which way to turn. George has told us, as he tells you, that his troubles did not originate with the so-called faro gang.

Denies Loss at Faro Game.

"We are content to take our time and the public must do the same. It is hard to discuss the matter now, and besides it would be unjust.

"George's affairs are in the hands of his lawyers. He says he was not victimized by bunco men, all of which will eventually show. We have done what we could in the premises. The results will have to shape themselves. We can only treat the matter as a great misfortune and, while dealing fairly in every direction, allow things to work themselves out.

"It is not for us to say just how this or that came about. We face the facts as we know them to date. That is trouble enough for the time.

"But we must all meet trouble. I trust that my boy will continue to meet it manfully. Certainly, he will be guided by the counsels of those older and wiser than himself."

RESCUE-BAND BURIED UNDER A SNOWSLIDE

SPOKANE, Wash., March 3.—A report to-day reached the local railroad office here that rescuers at work in the Cascade mountains at Wellington were carried away in a new snowslide. The report has it that thirty rescuers were buried.

The dead in the Wellington avalanche disaster number more than 100, according to survivors who reached here to-day. There is no hope of rescuing those now lying trapped in the cars of the two Great Northern trains buried by the slide. The seventy missing have been given up as dead. The railroad officials admit at least 84 killed.

The survivors arriving from the scene of torture and death tell awful tales. Passenger-filled coaches were carried two and three hundred and in some instances a thousand feet down the mountain side into yawning gorges and buried under hundreds of tons of snow and debris. Not a ray of hope remains of rescuing alive a single one of the many imprisoned in the cars now buried so deep.

Thirty bodies, nearly all mutilated beyond possible identification, are lying on the snow-covered mountain side. Some are covered with blankets, while others are bared to the blasts of the storm-charged heavens. As it is impossible to bring either wounded or the dead down the mountain side, preparations are being made to maintain a hospital and morgue at Wellington. It rained all night and to-day the danger of big snowslides is as great as ever.

Mountain storms are held responsible for the wreck of the Great Northern's crack train, the Oriental limited, in which a fireman was killed and many passengers injured. Rains loosened the earth supports of a two-ton boulder, which fell to the track. The train crashed into it and plunged down a fifty-foot embankment; five of the cars caught fire. The passengers were rescued with difficulty from the debris.

CONDON, RESCUE HERO, IS EMMET SPEAKER

This evening at the American House Boston Central Council of the United Irish League will hold a memorial meeting in honor of the anniversary of Robert Emmet. Hon. Augustine J. Daly of Cambridge will preside. The address on "Emmet" will be given by Captain Edward O'Meagher Condon, surviving hero of the rescue of the Fenian prisoners, Kelly and Deasy, from the prison van in 1867. For his share in the rescue, Captain Condon was sentenced to be hanged. He was released after spending eleven years in prison.

His companions, Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, not being American citizens, were hanged.

Treating The Wrong Disease

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or over-busy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality they are all only symptoms caused by some weakness or derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better by reason of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots without the use of alcohol and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the distinctly feminine organs. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

EVERY WOMAN ought to possess Dr. Pierce's great book, the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a magnificent thousand-page illustrated volume. It teaches mothers how to care for their children and themselves. It is the best doctor to have in the house in case of emergency. Over half a million copies were sold at $1.50 each, but one free copy in paper-covers will be sent on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only; or send 31 stamps for handsome cloth-bound copy. Address the publishers, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

ROCKEFELLER GIVES $500,000,000 FOR GREAT "UNIVERSAL CHARITY"

Colossal Fortune of Oil Man Will Be Divided Into Three Parts, Family Getting the Smallest Share.

Most Stupendous Act of Philanthropy Made Known by Bill Introduced in the United States Senate.

NEW YORK, March 3.—The Rockefeller Foundation, which is expected to comprise a fund of $500,000,000, is intended as a universal charity for all time.

This worldwide philanthropy, planned by the head of the Standard Oil Company, will be as broad and as flexible in the scope of its benefactions, it was explained to-day on behalf of the multi-millionaire, as lack of restrictions can make it. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has resigned from the Standard Oil directorate to assume charge of the new institution.

"The fund," said Starr J. Murphy, Mr. Rockefeller's personal counsel and one of the prospective members of the board to control the foundation, will be non-sectarian, as far as its distribution is concerned, and it will be adaptable for any purpose, at any time and at any place.

An Example of Charity.

"An instance of the fund's purposes will show what is meant. If there is a terrible earthquake or flood or any other similar catastrophe that properly invites the world's help, the income of the foundation could be immediately stopped toward whatever purposes were under consideration and all of it devoted immediately for the benefit of the sufferers. Also charitable, educational and other institutions, which will receive money from the fund, will receive what they may need, but not steady incomes.

"The foundation, in short, is intended to be a universal charity for all time."

OIL MAN'S RICHES WILL BE DIVIDED INTO THREE PARTS

By WILLIAM HOSTER.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A bill introduced in the regular course of business in the Senate by Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire revealed the most stupendous work of philanthropy in the history of the world.

The author of the scheme is John D. Rockefeller, and it involves the absolute gift from the great fortune which Standard Oil has built up for him of at least $500,000,000 and maybe more. The bill of incorporation names it the "Rockefeller Foundation."

In the early Summer of 1906 Mr. Rockefeller sat on a great stone bench in the park of the Chateau at Compiegne, France—a bench, by the way, on which Napoleon Bonaparte had frequently mused away hours—and calmly discussed the criticism and abuse that had been heaped upon him at home in America.

"Why do you never reply?" I asked him.

He grew silent and for about five minutes his gaze rested on the distant hills. At length he sighed deeply, and, laying his hand on my knee, said with a curious ring in his voice:

"My friend, I don't mind being misunderstood—I don't mind what they say about me. I know, and some day they will know me better than they do now. It may not be until after I am dead; but they will understand me, respect me, it may be even love me. I can wait."

Foundation Will Get Fortune.

The Rockefeller Foundation, according to a close associate of Mr. Rockefeller, is to receive the bulk of his fortune either while he is yet living or by his will after death. The scheme of the charitable disposition of his millions has occupied Mr. Rockefeller for a number of years. His great gifts to churches, educational and scientific institutions, totaling $122,000,000 or more, has in no wise kept up with the rapid growth of his fortune.

But the more rapidly it grew, the more there was to give to this great work upon which he had set his heart, and Mr. Rockefeller has waited patiently through the later years of his life to announce to the world his greatest philanthropy, which is to be a monument to his memory.

It has been estimated that if Mr. Rockefeller lives to the age of eighty, and he is now in his seventy-first year, his fortune would amount to $1,000,000,000, more than ever one man possessed before. It may be Mr. Rockefeller's idea to encourage the growth of his fortune up to the time of his death, starting the work of the Rockefeller Foundation during his lifetime, and willing to it his great fortune.

Scope of Foundation Unlimited.

The scope of the work of the Foundation is to be practically unlimited, according to the information given by Mr. Rockefeller's friend, who has discussed the matter with him, in administering to every form of charity or other humanitarian phase of life that cannot be classed as strictly educational. The educational work will be cared for by the General Educational Fund, which was incorporated under much the same sort of charter in 1905. These two funds are to be kept separate and distinct.

"I am not authorized to speak for Mr. Rockefeller," said Senator Gallinger after introducing his bill, "but there is no doubt that he intends to spend his millions. He has already spent $52,000,000 through the General Education Board. I have no doubt that Mr. Rockefeller intends to give away his money on a scale greater than any other living man. I am not acquainted with all of the details of Mr. Rockefeller's plans, but it is expected that Washington will be the headquarters."

It is when one turns to the bill itself that some idea of what the Oil King has in mind is obtained. The broad, comprehensive plans, world embracing, on which the Standard Oil Company was built up under the guiding hand of Mr. Rockefeller and through which his vast fortune was accumulated, are to be followed in the distribution of that fortune. The money-making genius is to be dominant in the money-spending business.

"I believe," said Mr. Rockefeller on one occasion, expounding his theory of wealth, "that as a doctor or a poet or a musician is given his talent to develop for the benefit of mankind, and to be used according to the dictates of his conscience, so was I given the talent for making money, to be used according to the dictates of my conscience."

It is believed that through the "Rockefeller Foundation," Mr. Rockefeller intends logically to work out to its conclusions this theory.

Will Divide Great Fortune.

Mr. Rockefeller has determined upon dividing his fortune into three great funds.

The first and largest is to be for charity, and this will be administered by the Rockefeller Foundation. It will include the work of endowing and maintaining charities already organized, as well as the founding of new ones.

The second is the General Education Fund, which is to be increased from $53,000,000 to considerably over $100,000,000, and will still further extend the work of the General Education Board, as already organized.

The third and smallest fund is to be set aside for the Rockefeller family.

"There is no desire on the part of Mr. Rockefeller," said his associate, "to leave a vast estate which may be kept growing through restrictions. He is opposed to bequests of fortunes after the manner of some New York millionaires, who will everything to their families to be held in trust from generation to generation."

He has come to Congress at the beginning and sought a Federal incorporation under the act of 1903, through which the Educational Fund, also endowed by him, was incorporated. So Mr. Carnegie made his foundation national.

But in the bill now introduced Mr. Rockefeller widens the scope of such philanthropic scheme to the uttermost limit.

Under the proposed plan he is able to go into any form of philanthropy in any part of the wide world. The proposed act gives the Foundation general powers of the widest possible character, within the purposes for which it was created, and Senators to-day expressed the belief that it would become the most gigantic and philanthropic scheme ever conceived by the human mind.

Senator Gallinger introduced the bill at the request of "Some friends of Mr. Rockefeller." He would not say who they were. The bill was handed to the Senator because he is Chairman of the Senate Committee of the District of Columbia, where the headquarters of the Foundation are to be, just as all the other big philanthropical foundations have their homes here.

To Make Annual Reports.

All the personal property and funds of the corporation held or invested for its purposes or to produce income for its purpose are to be exempt from taxation, but such exemption is not to apply to any property not used for the purposes of the corporation; provided, that the corporation shall not be entitled to such exemption if any officer, trustee, member or employee thereof shall receive any pecuniary profit from the operations thereof, except reasonable compensation for services in effecting one or more of such purposes.

The corporation is required to make annual reports to the Secretary of the Interior setting forth in detail the property owned, both real and personal, the expenditures and the income.

$250,000 REAL ESTATE PLANS IN BACK BAY

Another big Back Bay sale of real estate was reported to-day by W. J. McDonald of No. 95 Milk street, for Charles L. White of Brookline, of one of the largest pieces of vacant land effected in that section for a long time. It is the largest single tract this side of Brookline, containing 70,281 square feet, with a frontage of 185 feet on Audubon road, 217 feet on Mountfort street and 352 feet on St. Mary's street, this latter being the dividing line between Boston and Brookline.

The title is taken by George J. Wilson, as representing a well known syndicate, headed by Max Shoolman. It is the intention of the syndicate to develop the property through the office of Mr. McDonald by the erection of high-class apartments, costing about $250,000; they will be of brick and stone construction, ranging from two rooms, with bath and kitchenettes, to those of eight rooms and two baths.

Plans are now being drafted through the office of a well-known architect.

A feature of the new buildings will be the fronts, being of a most unique design and so constructed as to give the appearance of a high class private dwelling house. The new blocks will be three stories high and have a set-back of fifteen feet.

The property has a taxed value of $87,500, being considered one of the finest undeveloped tracts in this section of the Back Bay.

[illegible] has sold to Abbie C. Baker the estate at No. 498 Columbus avenue, near Rutland square, South End, comprising a four-story and basement swell-front brick house and 1760 square feet of land, all assessed for $12,500, of which $5,300 is on the land.

In Roxbury the three and one-half-story frame house and 2,925 square feet of land at No. 316 Centre street, adjoining the Lowell school near Mozart street, have been sold by Karl Zeiss to [illegible]. It is taxed for a total of $4,000, of which $1,200 is on the land.

Another property sold in the same suburb is that at No. 117 Warwick street, next to the corner of Weston street, which has been purchased by [illegible] from Annette C. Anderson. There is a three-story and basement brick stone-front house and 1,110 square feet of land, assessed on a total valuation of $3,700, of which $1,200 is on the land.

Archibald F. Hall has sold to Clara E. Seavey, the title passing through J. Scott McCann, the frame dwelling and 8,585 square feet of land at No. 6 Bowdoin avenue, near Eldon street, Dorchester. This estate is assessed on a total valuation of $7,100, of which $2,100 is on the land.

[illegible] W. Savage reports that papers have gone to record in the sale made by his office of the property No. 7 Pleasant terrace, Dorchester, consisting of a three-apartment frame house and 4,870 square feet of land. Of the total assessment of $6,600 the land is valued at $1,200. William H. Parmelee conveyed to Marguerite A. Wilder, who bought for investment.

John L. Bates et al., trustees, have sold to Theodore E. Clark the frame house and 4,483 square feet of land at No. 29 Rosseter street, near Eldon street, Dorchester. This property is taxed for a total of $5,700, of which $1,200 is on the land.

Paul H. Fox has sold to Matilda E. G. Yocum the frame house and 3,649 square feet of land, all assessed for $3,600, at No. 52 Sydney street, near Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester. The land is rated for $1,100.

Another Dorchester property sold is that at No. 280 Adams street, near Spaulding square, which has been purchased by Margaret J. Connelly from Clara E. Aiken, the title passing through Loring W. Lee. There is a frame house and 5,000 square feet of land, all assessed for $2,500, of which $700 is on the land.

Walter Welding has sold to Jay C. Macomber a lot of land on Harvard street, Dorchester, near Wales street, containing 6,468 square feet and assessed for $1,080.

Anna L. Weis has sold to Charles P. Daley et ux., a lot of land, containing 5,972 square feet and taxed for $1,500, on Rosedale street, near Clapp place, Dorchester.

In East Boston the lot of land at the corner of Saratoga and Swift streets, containing 600 square feet and taxed for $2,000, has been purchased by Annie Bennett et al. from Samuel Barkin.

A big sale of Amesbury property reported to-day was that purchased by George J. Wilson from Frank B. Currier, including seventy-eight acres of land on Lyons Mouth road, with a large house, stable, outbuildings and personal property; also a frame house with a good lot of land on Friend street, also two-frame houses with lots of land on Henry street; forty acres of wood land in Amesbury and Southampton, fifteen acres of pasture land and forty-five acres of intervale land; all valued at $15,000. Nickey-Walker Company represented the grantor, and W. J. McDonald the grantee.

ROGER SHERMAN HOAR SAYS MACHINES KNIFED ANTI-CORRUPTION BILL

By Roger Sherman Hoar,

Chairman of the Harvard Committee on Legislation.

I sat in the gallery of the House of Representatives and saw and heard the killing of our bill relative to delegates and alternates in political conventions. The vote was 38 to 101, without a roll call.

The Committee on Election Laws had recommended that the student petitioners be given "leave to withdraw." Democrats, like McGrath of Natick, O'Brien of Boston and McCarthy of Holyoke, sought to have the bill substituted for the adverse report. They were opposed by Rousmaniere of Boston and Davis of Melrose, Republicans, and by Halton of Charlestown, I am sorry to say, a Democrat.

I wonder if the readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN know what this bill is, relative to delegates and alternates to political conventions.

It is a bill to stop the sale of credentials to State conventions and congressional conventions. It is a bill to stop the packing of convention halls by bosses of either party. Both parties have bosses. This bill would shear the boss of much of his power.

We got the inspiration for our bill from a similar bill enacted into the law of New Hampshire two years ago through the efforts of Winston Churchill.

The Senate chairman of the Committee on Election Laws told me some days ago that his committee had given us leave to withdraw because, after all, this was a question that "might well be left to the decency of the political parties."

Hearing Notice Too Late.

On the same ground there ought to be no legislation against the thief who robs a bank, from the inside. Why shouldn't we leave his case to the decency of bank directors?

On the floor of the House Mr. Rousmaniere twice deliberately misrepresented what had taken place at the hearing. He told the House that the petitioners had "failed to appear" at the first hearing set for them. I got my notice of this first hearing two days AFTER the date assigned in the notice. It was impossible for me to attend.

Rousmaniere said that "the young Republican" who addressed the committee in favor of the bill at the final hearing said that he had attended three Republican conventions and admitted that he had never seen anything wrong in them.

The young Republican was Van Rensellaer, who had served as a clerk at Republican State headquarters. What happened was this:

Rousmaniere said to Rensellaer: "Did anything happen in those conventions that ought not to have happened?"

And Van Rensellaer said: "No, there was nothing out of the ordinary IN the convention." [illegible] in the hearing room laughed. [illegible] his meaning was that the stacking had been done beforehand, and there was no call for trickery IN the convention hall.

"Republicans More Clever."

Van Rensellaer told Rousmaniere's committee of a Republican leader who on the night before a convention had 200 credentials in his inside pocket. Will anybody contend that a political convention is honest, decent or representative when 200 of its units are not the delegates selected, but dummies picked by a boss to carry out his orders?

Rousmaniere wanted to know if Van Rensellaer thought these evils were as flagrant in the Republican party as in the Democratic party, and Van Rensellaer, who appeared as a witness for us, being a resident of Cambridge, though a student at Cornell, said the Republicans "go about it in a more gentlemanly way, do it more cleverly, but do more of it."

The Harvard Committee on Legislation asked for this law because our members had seen the necessity for it. The committee is made up of thirteen men, delegated from the Harvard Good Government Association, and the Harvard Democratic, Republican and Socialist clubs.

The Fight Not Over.

When I heard Rousmaniere speaking for the Republican State machine but voicing the sentiments of BOTH the machines, I longed for the right to get down on the floor and tell the House the story we gave Rousmaniere's committee.

The same bill will be offered to the Legislature next year. One of these days, before long, Massachusetts will see the necessity for it. We may have to wait until two wealthy men get into a scramble for one of the governorship nominations.

I hope to be in the House or Senate next year and take a hand in the fight.

City Hall Notes

Although Ex-Mayor Hibbard ordered the department heads to pay all tradesmen and mechanics employed by the city the union scale of wages, some of the unions claim that the order has not been carried out. John W. Barton, business agent of the Electrical Workers, claims that they have not benefited as it was intended and he has requested a hearing from Mayor Fitzgerald.

The next appointments the Mayor will be called upon to make will be two new members for the Art Commission. There are two vacancies caused by death, and a third member of the commission is away from the city for an indefinite period. There is no quorum, as the two remaining members of the commission are unable to act. The work of preparing for the rearrangement of the statues on Commonwealth avenue, for which $10,000 has been appropriated from the Parkman fund, is one of the things that demands their immediate attention.

Applications are pouring in to Mayor Fitzgerald for jobs. Many are from former employes who were suspended or discharged from the city service for various reasons during the past two years. The letters are being kept by Assistant Secretary Field, and the Mayor will consider them all upon his return. Secretary Leahy has been relieved from acting upon any of these letters or dealing with office-seekers, and his official duties are somewhat lighter as a result.

A few politicians and near politicians are gunning for the job of Alva C. Peck, the stenographer and clerk of Superintendent of Streets Emerson. Peck has been the right-hand man of the superintendent and as a result has suffered the loss of popularity. He has been connected with the department since 1891, and is rated as a competent official, so that the betting is even that he will not be removed.

There have been numerous protests from aspirants for positions in the fire department over the rule established by Commissioner Parker that no applicant will be appointed who is not 5 feet 7 inches in height and weighing at least 135 pounds. The Mayor will take up the matter with the fire commissioner upon his return.

Jim Donovan has entirely recovered from his recent illness which has kept him confined to his home since election day, and expects to be about the city next week. The sickness turned his hair white, but in other respects he appears physically as well as ever.

'SALOME' WILL NOT BE SUNG HERE

Oscar Hammerstein will not present "Salome" in Boston this year, it is announced by W. J. Guard, who is here to arrange for the Manhattan Opera Company's engagement, beginning on March 28. Mr. Guard says that the repertoire will be the strongest that Mr. Hammerstein controls. "Elektra" will be one of the operas, and Mary Garden will sing in the new French opera "Griselidis."

BEEF TRUST FACTS GO TO WASHINGTON

CHICAGO, March 3.—District Attorney Sims, with his special assistant, James R. Wilkerson, and Assistant Attorney-General Oliver E. Paigin, left to-day for Washington with all the evidence that has been submitted to the Grand Jury in the Beef Trust investigation. There will be an interview and a long series of conferences with Attorney-General Wickersham over the evidence.

JUDGE GROVER'S ESTATE.

Gregory W. Grover, son of the late Thomas E. Grover, ex-district attorney of Norfolk and Plymouth counties, to-day filed in the Norfolk Registry of Probate Court at Dedham a petition asking to be appointed administrator of his late father's estate. An inventory accompanying the petition showed the deceased to have possessed real estate to the value of $9,000 and $10,000 in personal property.

LIGHTING PLANTS WILL BE ENLARGED

A petition was filed to-day with the Gas and Electric Light Commission by the Salem Gaslight Company, through its president, Henry A. Hale, for permission to issue $150,000 additional capital stock. The purpose is to provide funds for additions to the plant, and in part to pay floating indebtedness of the company. The capital stock authorized is $350,000.

The Gardner Electric Light Company to-day asked for permission to increase its capital stock from $65,000 to $170,000 to pay off indebtedness and to enlarge the plant and distribution system.

HACKETT CALLED BY CENTRAL CHURCH

Arthur J. Hackett, for several years tenor soloist at the Piedmont Church, Worcester, has been called to the Central Church, corner of Newbury and Berkeley streets, Back Bay. He has not as yet sent an answer. The position to which Hackett has been called has been filled by some of the most prominent tenor soloists in the country. As a result the call from the Back Bay church is a signal tribute to his singing powers. He is a pupil of Hubbard of this city.

OLEO TAX LAW HEARING HELD UP

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Chairman Scott of the House Agricultural Committee said to-day that when the committee concludes its consideration of the bill to prohibit dealings in futures in farm products the bill to amend the law relating to the tax on oleomargarine will be taken up.

FARM PLEA FOR NEW ENGLAND

The cheapest land in the United States, fertility considered, is in New England, declared President W. D. Gibbs of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture in a lecture to the New England Country Church Association at the Twentieth Century Club rooms in Joy street.

Professor Gibbs said that New England agriculture had been declining since 1860, due to the development of the West and the great increase of manufacturing here. He thought this decline would stop now and that the flood would turn his way.

"Hardly forty miles from Boston," he said, "on a main railroad line, is a town with the best apple land in the United States, yet farms there are selling for $10 to $80 an acre, while in Oregon treeless land brings $200 and orchards $2,000 an acre.

"The young men hunting for cheap land," he said, "ought not to go West, but come East, where they need no irrigation and where the best markets are close to hand. Let churches, schools and boards of trade all work together, and we'll have in New England what it needs more than anything else, an enthusiastic and enlightened agriculture."

Bolton Hall of New York, speaking on "The Profit of the Earth is for All," argued that the agricultural trouble was because the high price of land held for speculation forced the farmers from the best situations into unprofitable localities. The land question, he said, was at the bottom of the question of the rural community and the country church.

NEW YORK FOG IMPERILS LIFE

NEW YORK, March 3.—Unbroken for four days, the fog lay along the Atlantic coast for 500 miles in a thick blanket. New York traffic was crippled and many accidents were caused by the mist. Surface, elevated and bridge lines were tied up. Ferry services were demoralized. Hundreds of thousands of passengers were delayed. Railroad lines were crippled. Five thousand travellers on a dozen liners were delayed. Trains on Brooklyn bridge were stopped. Ferry lines gave up all attempts to run.

The Lackawanna railroad ferryboat Scandinavia crashed into and completely wrecked the upper structure of the New York Central tug No. 13. The passengers rushed astern with the crash, many women screaming and fainting. There were a number of collisions and many daring rescues.

FOLLOW THE ARROWS

AWAY GOES INDIGESTION, GAS AND ALL OTHER STOMACH MISERY

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common everyday cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

MANY ATTRACTIONS THIS YEAR AT THE BIG AUTO SHOW

SPEED BOYS GET AWAY TO-DAY FOR TRAINING CAMP AT HOT SPRINGS

On their way will be the Speedboys to-night as the warriors on whom Boston depends on to cop the American league pennant this year, get away at 11:30 p. m. from the South Station and hike for the sunny fields of Hot Springs to put on the preliminary touches before the real onslaught commences.

It will be quite a baseball occasion in spite of the late hour of departure, as all the staunch fans will be on hand to wish Manager Donovan the best of luck on his first year as director of the most feared aggregation of ball players on the circuit.

The delegation that leaves from this end en route for the southern camp will not have many ball players in its midst, but the mainspring of the team.

Fans Will Go Along.

The old time rooters, oh, you can't lose them. They have been the ones who always find it convenient to travel south about the time the Red Sox leave, will be on deck with baggage, trying to impersonate young ball players. Colonel Bill Cahill, the fan who never misses a game, will lead the throng. Steve Flanagan, owner of the Brockton club, is first lieutenant. Others who will fill in are Joe Burns, John Champion, Pat Sheehan and J. H. Dinen.

The most conspicuous one in the whole bunch will be Trainer Charley Green. It will be easy to pick him out. He will be rubbering at every player as he shows up at the train, and testing his wind and limb, and at the same time laying out a course of preliminary tricks to attend to, as well as giving short and long discourses on the dangers of overdoing early in the season. Without Doc Green and his medical kit the team would be in sore straits, for he looks after the sore arms.

It will be quick to the bay when the whistle blows all aboard, as the party has a long trip ahead of many hours continuous riding. When the entourage lands in Gotham in the morning there will be a march on the Prince George Hotel for breakfast, and here several more of the gang will be picked up, including Pitchers Barberich, Thompson and Elmer Steele.

Pick Up More Players.

On to Cincinnati will be the cry after the morning repast, where the Indian pitcher Leroy, Cicotte, Pape, Edman, Donahue and Niles will be waiting to catch on to the private car. Manager Donovan has written to Bullet Jack Thoney to be there and talk his condition over.

It will be cards, and any old thing to kill time on the train while it hustles along for the rest of the distance to the southern winter resort, and by Sunday afternoon the training camp will be reached.

The California players and Tris Speaker in Texas have started east to be on hand at the same time the eastern contingent arrives.

Ray Collins, the great southpaw twirler, floated into headquarters this morning from Burlington, Vt., Tom Madden, the catcher, also called on Treasurer McBreen to see about transportation and to notify the management that he was ready for business.

Collins was looking in fine shape. He said he had put in his Winter mostly outdoors and he felt as strong as a bull. He reported that George Winter, the former pitcher of the Boston Americans, had been working in a clothing store in Burlington all Winter and after hours was out fishing through the ice on Lake Champlain. George is hooked up with the Montreal Club of the Eastern League.

BIG LEAGUERS IN FIRST DIAMOND CLASH TODAY

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 3.—Cloudless skies and bright, warm sunshine brought almost 100 major league ball players in uniform to the two ball parks, which will be the Spring training sites of five big clubs. Aside from the major leaguers here there are many representatives from the minors.

Bill Dahlen of Brooklyn and John Kleinow of New York will put opposing teams in the field to-day in the first exhibition games. Fromme, Spade, Beebe, Griffith and Witherup will alternate in the box, with Roth catching for one side, and Waddell, Cy Young, Donovan and Clark will work with Kleinow for the other.

Mike Finn, a veteran, who in past years has been managing minor league clubs, is heading a delegation of minor league managements here. They will remain through the Spring training season and get a line on the men who are given trials with the big leagues, but who may later be dropped.

Thirty members of the Brooklyn team will join Dahlen here Friday, and reservations for fifty-three men have been made for the Boston Americans for Sunday, which includes newspaper men coming with the team.

GIANT YOUNGSTERS SHOW THEIR OATS

MARLIN, Tex., March 3.—A team which started out as the Giant regulars but ended as a bunch of youngsters, defeated the Yaps by a score estimated at 9 to 7 or something like that. The score is of less importance than the fact that the regulars, while playing together, failed to score a single run, and the only hit made by them was a single by Arthur Devlin, who played a spectacular game at third. The youngsters saved the day for them.

The lack of hitting on the part of the regulars was due to the fact that Buck and Parsons, who pitched against them, used all the speed at their command and wielded also a few curves.

KLING IS IN BAD WITH COMMISSION

CINCINNATI, O., March 3.—New and unlooked-for evidence has just reached the hands of members of the National Baseball Commission against Catcher Johnny Kling of the Cubs, which will take a great amount of favorable evidence to defend in his application for reinstatement. It concerns the organization in Kansas City which Kling controlled. He was the secretary and treasurer of that organization and therefore fought the American Association on the Saturdays and Sundays when other teams played the Kansas City club on the home grounds there.

Baseball News and Notes.

Oh, mamma! What a league the American would be with the Pirates and Reds added to the circuit. And what a chance the National League would have against such an opposing organization!

* * *

It had been at least a week since C. Webb Murphy had his name in the paper, so he sprung the story about M. Brown being the highest salaried pitcher in the country. "Even gets more than Matty," said the Human Windbag.

* * *

Mr. Brown must draw a nice piece of change if this is so, but from inside information we understand that Mathewson pulls down close to $10,000. This may listen big, but a member of the Giants is responsible for our knowledge.

* * *

When Kid Elberfeld sent in his signed contract to the Washington Club the other day he announced that he was "going to show the fans some real baseball this season." The Kid sure can show all that he says when he wants to, and there is a lot of it left in him yet.

* * *

The move of the National Commission in giving Johnny Kling and Charley Murphy five days in which to submit their correspondence since the great player quit the ranks means that John may have a harder time getting back than he expects.

* * *

That runs for Sweeney, however. When Kling first refused to join the Cubs last season Murphy set up an awful howl. He swore that he would see to it that Kling was never again allowed to don a mask. But now—well, it's a different story.

President Ebbetts of the Infants has made all arrangements for the trip of his athletes to the training camp in Hot Springs. No player who hasn't signed a contract will be permitted to join the club in the Arkansas health resort, and any pastimer who fails to report there by March 5 will be fined $100. Manager Dahlen will be the earliest of the Superbas at the training camp.

Garry Herrmann and Barney Dreyfuss, both of whom held out for the usual 154-game schedule, have kind of hung one on their brothers of the National League. They have rearranged the closing dates of the Pirates and Reds that these two teams finish the season at about the same time as does the American League, instead of on October 15, as will the other clubs in the Lynch circuit.

Manager Griffith is still after Johnny Bates. Griffith tried to trade "Rebel" Oakes for Bates, and while the Phillies were thinking it over Griffith saw a chance to make a deal with St. Louis, and Oakes went to the Mound City. The Cincinnati and Philadelphia clubs are now trying to consummate another deal. A Red outfielder and an infielder will go to the Quaker City if Bates comes to Cincinnati.

* * *

Manager Chance of the Cubs had the following to say of Clarence Beaumont, whose release he recently purchased from the Boston Nationals. "If Beaumont is as good as I think he is, he will have a regular job with the Cubs. If he is not, he at least will be valuable as a man to keep on the bench and send in games in cases of emergency. I don't believe he has been satisfied recently, and I do think he has wanted to play with the Cubs for the last two or three years. He will be given every opportunity to make good, and it will be his own fault if he doesn't show enough class."

LIEFIELD MARRIED BUT READY TO PLAY

PITTSBURG, March 3.—"Lefty" Liefield, one of Pittsburg's southpaw pitchers, has at last been heard from. A letter to President Dreyfuss anounces that he will forward his contract at an early date. In the meantime he assures Dreyfuss of his acceptance.

Liefield is in Chicago on a honeymoon. He was married Monday. He will join the team at West Baden next week.

Can They Be Talking About Baseball? Well!

GOOD PRELIMS ARRANGED FOR AMERICAN A. C.

It's a good card they have arranged down at the American Club for Saturday night. In addition to the main event between Kid Goodman and the Frenchman, Henri Piet, and the members of the new organization are in for a good night's sport.

George Alger of Cambridge is slated to meet Joe Harrington of Marlboro in the semi-final. George "Hopper" Dennis of the Bunker Hill district, will clash with Johnny Yanger of East Boston, and Billy McAuliffe of South Boston is paired against Kid Burke of the North End.

Goodman and Piet are likely to furnish a go worth going some distance to see. If the Hebrew boy is figuring on finding some easy picking in the boy from "Gay Paree," he is very apt to be fooled.

Any boxer who can give such boys as Willie Lucas, Tommy Langdon and Tommy O'Keefe an argument, as Piet has, is not to be trifled with. With such an attractive array of talent on the program there is sure to be a good attendance of members to see the fun Saturday night. Decisions will be rendered in all the bouts for the coming show.

DONAHUE WILL MEET MURPHY

The Young Men's Social and Athletic Club of Brockton has arranged a good card for its meeting to-morrow night. The main event will be a twelve-round go to a decision between Young Donahue and Eddie Murphy, both of Boston.

The semi-final will be between Dave O'Brien of Boston and Dutch Carr of Charlestown, and they will box eight rounds, probably at 145 pounds. Max Kramer of Boston and Eddie Golden, who also gives the Hub as his residence, will meet in a preliminary at 115 pounds and they are scheduled to go six rounds, but one never can tell what may happen before that distance is reached.

CONDITIONS FOR GAMES AT SOUTH ARMORY

First Lieutenant H. J. Kane of Company Eight, Corps of Coast Artillery, announces the conditions for the games which will be held at the South Armory, March 19, as follows: The track will be fifteen feet wide, nine laps to a mile and of two stretches, each seventy yards long. The corners will be forty feet long, eleven feet wide at the centre and four feet high. A starting machine will be built for the sprints. All teams, including the Wail and Rescue teams, must be registered athletes.

BACK BAY WOMEN IN BOWLING TOURNEY

An interesting bowling tournament is in progress on the alleys of "The Harvard," No. 640 Huntington avenue. The rolling started Monday and will be finished April 15, when the man and woman who get the highest three-string totals will be each awarded a handsome cup.

Many Back Bay women, learning of the excellent exercise afforded by bowling, have taken up the game at "The Harvard," and also any afternoon or evening students from the Harvard medical and dental schools, as well as Tufts College, may be seen hurling the balls down the alleys.

LATEST MODELS IN AUTO TRUCKS AT MOTOR SHOW

By J. C. KERRISON.

There is no question but what the motor show, which opens in Mechanics Building on Saturday evening next, will prove the most successful motor exposition ever held in the far East, and will prove second to none in the country at large. Manager Campbell and his force of men are accomplishing great wonders in the interior arrangements of Mechanics Building, having completed fully one-half the work of decorating the same.

The Boston show has established a precedent and an example for all the others and it behooves the management to live up to its reputation. This entails much thought and heavy expense. Each year a greater sum has been expended on decorative features, until this year it has rached a figure that a few years ago would have appeared fabulous.

The last few years have proven conclusively that the commercial field offers a wide latitude for the exploitation of the motor constructors. That they have fully realized that fact is abundantly proven by the increased number of manufacturers of motor vehicles, who have made a special study of the commercial field, and are to-day producing vehicles which will readily and easily transport every conceivable kind of merchandise. All of those different makes will be shown, as well as every sort of pleasure vehicle, steam, gasolene and electric.

No one can visit the show without coming away with the idea that accessibility and automatic features are striking points in the new cars. As instances, in many cases the fan behind the radiator can be taken off, the water pump can be examined without taking off the radiator, or the magneto itself can be taken out and replaced in a few minutes.

Pressed steel, or rather, stamped steel, running boards have displaced the old clumsy wooden running board; the usually dirty rubber mat for floor covering has lost favor and aluminum has taken its place, especially that type having a roughened surface, which is stamped rather than cast.

Wherever gasoline tanks are not carried under the front seat or underneath the rear cross section part of the frame, where the pressure feed system is used, a new scheme seems to be that of placing the gasoline tanks back of the front seats, but of course made in an elliptical section, so as not to take up too much room in the tonneau, the idea being to carry the gasoline high, and thus get a gravity feed and do away with the need of a pressure feed. The system also makes the room under the front seats available for storage.

The Massachusetts Committee on Roads and Bridges heard no end of reasons why vehicles using the highways at night should carry lighted lanterns when they called up the several petitions for the enactment of a law bringing about that much desired end. The bulk of the evidence presented to the committee was decidedly in favor of some such measure. The remonstrants were few and far between, the chief argument against such a measure being that it would work financial hardships upon the farmers and teaming communities of the State.

It is believed that this year the petition will be enacted and that a year hence there will be no excuse of not seeing it for accidents that happen at night.

He feels that the Boston show always brings out some good features lacking in other exhibits, and he is here to take advantage of any such and likewise to feel the public pulse.

JACK AND MIKE SEEKING BOUTS

Mike "Twin" Sullivan says that he isn't going to let his brother Jack make 158 pounds again for anybody, no matter how tempting the financial inducements.

Says the matchmaking half of the fighting twins: "Jack weakened himself to a great extent making the weight for Klaus, and incidentally hurt his hand. Jack would like a smash at Al Kaufman, Jim Flynn, who so decisively beat Sam Langford, or Stanley Ketchel.

"I would like a chance myself to meet Young Loughery, who did such excellent boxing in his victory over Tommy Quill."

WESTON ON HIS WAY.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., March 3.—Edward Payson Weston reached Chapelle, N. M., to-night after walking forty-six miles from Lamy Junction since morning. The walk was one of the hardest Weston has experienced on his trip to New York.

TY COBB SIGNS FOR $9,000 PER

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 3.—Tyrus R. Cobb has signed a three-years' contract with the Detroit American League club at a salary of $9,000 per year.

Cobb is generally considered the best ball player in the American League. Although hardly more than twenty-two years old, he has led the league in batting for two years. He also leads in the number of bases stolen.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

ACMES TO HOLD A CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

The Acme Athletic Association will hold their second annual cross-country run April 19 at 10 a. m., over a well laid out course for a distance of ten miles.

Valuable prizes will be awarded to the first eight men. Interest is high to make this event the best ever held in the district.

FELLSWAYS ELECT PAINE PRESIDENT

The Fellsway Driving Club of Somerville have elected officers as follows: President, Daniel Paine; first vice-president, L. F. Sanborn; second vice-president, C. W. Thyng; third vice-president, George A. Law; fourth vice-president, James McRae; treasurer, George M. Davis; secretary, Frank E. Morrison; board of directors, J. I. Brooks, W. W. Sprague, G. N. Coyle, H. R. Cobb, F. S. McKown, A. L. Jameson, H. W. Litchfield, W. A. Rice, C. Forshner and C. M. Lockwood.

PAL MOORE STOPS BOXING.

Pal Moore, the little Quaker bantam star, has gone to his manager's training camp at Allenhurst, N. J., for a long rest, and won't be seen in the ring again for some time, an absence which will do the kid lots of good, as well as being a good thing for some ambitious bantams.

SIEGER AFTER SHEVLIN.

That old tough nut of the boxing game, "Iron Man" Charlie Sieger, the Hoboken strong lad wants a chance to meet Eddie Shevlin, the unbeaten Boston lightweight. Charlie can take an awful pounding, even if he couldn't match Eddie in skill.

California trainers will invade the Grand Circuit this year in a stronger body than has been the case for several seasons. W. G. Durfee, who brought a stable east both in 1908 and 1909, will come over again with a strong stable, while Walter Maben and Fred Ward, both well-known trainers, will come over with some good horses for the big ring series of races. Maben will have among his horses the trotting mare Rapidan Dillon, 2:12, a daughter of Sidney Dillon that showed herself as good as a 2:08 trotter last year.

PICKS COCHATO COLT TO WIN FUTURITIES

George W. Leavitt, whose specialty is picking up rough diamonds among trotting bred youngsters, is back from a two-weeks' trip to Lexington, Ky., and says there are a lot of high-class prospects among the youngsters that are pointed toward the futurities.

About the best that he looked at was a two-year-old colt by Cochato, 2:11½, out of a mare by Nutwood. This chap can show an awful lick, so George says, and looks like a real futurity prospect. The only thing about him that could be criticized is the fact that he has a parrot mouth, a defect that while it would in no way interfere with his racing ability, would detract from his value as a sire when his racing days were over.

There has been at one time and another considerable discussion as to whether this physical defect in horses is hereditary, the general belief being that it is not.

The fastest parrot-mouth trotter that has yet appeared is W. J. Lewis, 2:06¾, a right good race horse.

Mr. Leavitt has a number of two-year-olds by Cochato in Kentucky, several of which will be trained this season. One of the number is out of a full sister to the sensational pacer George Gano, 2:03¾.

He says the sons of Bingen that will make the season in Kentucky will have the cream of the business in that section and that the get of Miss Katherine L. Wilks's Kentucky Todd, 2:08¾, are a splendid lot of youngsters, and predicts a brilliant future for him in the stud.

Kentuckians in general were very well pleased with the result of the recent sale, and they take a very optimistic view of the future of the breeding industry.

NELSON WON'T FIGHT TILL AFTER MAY 1

CHICAGO, March 3.—Battling Nelson, ex-champion lightweight fighter, announced to-day that in all probability he and Johnny Thompson will be matched for a forty-round fight to take place at San Francisco about the first of May. According to Nelson a guarantee of $7,500 has been offered him with a provision that the fight take place this month. Nelson declined the offer on the ground that he could not get into condition before May. He, however, believes that Griffin will agree to the latter date.

RICKARD WON'T BE HELD UP FOR $5,000

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—San Francisco may not go down in history as the scene of the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight.

The disinclination of Tex Rickard, who, with Jack Gleason of this city, is promoting the championship contest, to pay $5,000 for the privilege of staging it here, will be the cause, if the fight goes elsewhere.

The permit for July, during which the Jeffries-Johnson dispute is to be fought to a conclusion, is held by "Jimmy" Griffin, whose corporated name is "The Broadway Club." Rickard, it is said, has had a talk with Chairman Herget of the Police Commissioners, who referred him to Griffin.

Griffin is perfectly willing to give the promoter his permit—for $5,000. Rickard, it is said, is not inclined to see the offer favorably, particularly so with an offer of $25,000 bonus from Salt Lake in his hand.

There may be many more complications before the great Jeffries-Johnson fight is decided. There have been all kinds of squabbles ever since Tex Rickard and Jack Gleason made their successful joint bid of $101,000 for the mill.

At the outset Rickard said that the battle would take place at Salt Lake City, or nowhere. His side-kick Gleason said that he was in favor of holding the contest in his own city, Frisco. The State authorities at this juncture declared that no such fight could be held in Utah and this made it look like a certainty that the contest would go to Frisco or some other city in California, but the promoters have been engaged in all sorts of arguments since.

Now some new figures have come into the limelight. One Dick Ferris of Los Angeles says that he will give Rickard and Gleason $150,000 if they will sell out their interest in the contest. Joseph Nelson of Salt Lake City has also offered the men a good bonus if they would relinquish their interest in the fight, but so far there has been nothing doing.

MANTELL BEATS MANSFIELD IN EVERY ROUND

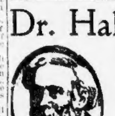

PROVIDENCE, March 3.—Frank Mantell, the Pawtucket middleweight, would have put Harry Mansfield, the English fighter, out in their fifteen-round bout at the Rhode Island A. C., but for the Briton's gameness.

The Pawtucket man punished him hard in practically every session of their fifteen round engagement. A large crowd watched the mill.

In the eleventh round, by a series of blows to the head and body, delivered while in a clinch, Mantell bore Mansfield to the floor for the count of seven. It looked as if the bout would end there, but the Briton proved a tough customer and stalled through the remainder of the round, easily avoiding Mantell's eager rushes.

During the last four rounds Mantell tried hard to put his man away, but Mansfield, although badly beaten, was on his feet when the bell rang for the last time.

MAYOR'S SON IS TRACK WINNER

By winning the relay race, the last event on the program, the Dorchester High School Juniors defeated the Mechanic Arts High Juniors in a dual meet 29 to 22 at Dorchester yesterday afternoon. Prior to this event Dorchester was leading by one point.

Thomas Fitzgerald, son of Mayor Fitzgerald, was one of the point winners for Dorchester High [illegible] the 600-yard run. He had a close tussle with Carney of Mechanic Arts High for second place, the latter just beating him out. Dorchester had only two boys entered in the 600 and both won places.

NOW THAT FRANK PICATO, THE coast lightweight, has beaten Dave Deshler, why doesn't Alec McLean hook Matty Baldwin up with the Westerner and retrieve the glory of his stable? That's what Alec did when Ray Bronson trimmed Deshler. He sent Matty after Bronson twice, and the result was two draws. Matty is some retriever, and the way Deshler has been fighting recently, has it all over him. Picato and Matty would make an interesting scrap for Johnny Mooney to and for the Armory fans.

F. H. BRYANT, SOUTH END, BOSTON. — Here's where I fool you, F. H., for I am not going to get back at you for your "feverish outburst of a discontented mind." Now about Jimmy Walsh, and the article you speak of about him being barred from Pittsburg. I can't see what figure the action of those Pittsburg people can have on him or his right to the bantam title. They barred him because he refused [illegible] for being handed the awing down in Pittsburg, a number [illegible] their methods. [illegible] back that Pittsburg [illegible] need only point out that [illegible] said that Jimmy weighed 1[illegible] because he was so twelve [illegible] to make [illegible] weigh less than 1[illegible] pounds [illegible] whether he [illegible] and I'll [illegible] along with years. Jimmy is [illegible] legitimate [illegible] any bantam in this country. J. V. McPHEE, LOWELL. — DON'T know where you can get a half-tone picture of Mike Sears, the boxer. I can find no record of him ever boxing [illegible] Gardner. He fought in England for some championship, I believe the feather.

CONSTANT READER AND FELIX, [illegible] Worcester, Mass. — There are a number of competent boxing instructors about Boston. I know nothing about their fees. Fitzsimmons has the greatest number of knock-outs to his credit, having put twenty-three men to sleep. The records of the others are: Johnson 14, Sullivan 11, Jeffries 11 and Corbett 6.

JAMES COURNAN, WORCESTER, MASS. — Johnny Mooney is the matchmaker of the Armory Athletic Club, and all matters relating to boxing matches there should be addressed to him. The Armory Club is at No. 511 Tremont street.

E. S. M., SOMERVILLE, MASS. — YOU'D better go around and collect that three bucks from your friend. Then come in and we'll buy each other a drink.

H. J., DEDHAM. — MARVIN HART IS credited with a victory over Jack Johnson in twenty rounds in San Francisco on March 28, 1905. There was quite a question at the time as to whether Hart was entitled to the decision, and a widespread opinion prevailed that the negro had been handed a large bunch the worst of it.

TOMMY MURPHY IS SORE AT THE COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8. — Tommy Murphy, accompanied by his manager, Johnny Oliver, started for New York this morning. He has changed his mind about giving Moran another fight, and although the two were to meet to-day to arrange for the new match, the meeting was called off. Moran had posted $2,500 with John T. Clark as a side bet. This money he will now withdraw.

"I don't like the way you people have treated me," said Murphy. "The newspapers have roasted me, and the talk that has been handed out because Smith gave me the decision has disgusted me. In view of the way things have turned out and of the raw deal the public has given me, I won't fight Moran again."

Fun for Both of Them

A SHORT STORY

"I'VE discovered it!" announced the young man, sitting on the end of [illegible] settee behind the palms and ferns.

"What?" asked in alarm the pretty girl who sat next him. "Is there too much powder on my nose, or do you think this is last year's party dress made over? [illegible] it isn't!"

"Nothing so banal," said the young man. "I don't quite know what banal means, but I like the sound of the word. No, what I've discovered is your New Year's resolution. You resolved to make me as miserable as possible."

"How funny!" cried the pretty girl. "You aren't rehearsing for a parlor play or anything like that, are you?"

"Why should you jest with me?" the young man asked reproachfully. "I don't have to rehearse set speeches with you. My remarks are spontaneous. They bubble forth of their own accord without any effort or control on my part!"

"I should think it would make you terribly nervous," sympathized the young woman. "Never knowing what you were going to say, I mean. Why, you are likely to make all sorts of rash assertions or promises, and it's so hard to explain to people afterward."

"I'm never that way with any one but you, so I don't worry about it," explained the young man.

"Oh, well, it's all right, then," said the pretty girl. "Of course I never pay any serious attention to what you say."

"I'm quite [illegible] of that fact," said the young man. "[illegible] is the thing which really [illegible] think you do it on purpose, [illegible] just to keep me unhappy."

[illegible] the young woman in a grieved tone. "I wouldn't make a fly unhappy [illegible] avoid it!"

"[illegible] you wouldn't," said the young man. "There aren't any flies at this time of year, and you know it. Besides, I'm not at all interested in the [illegible]. What is engaging my attention [illegible] at present is the state of my own feelings, and they are what you might [illegible] harrowed."

"Exercise is good for him," declared the young man. "He'll feel better for a half dozen sprints around the room. It's Spangden, I suppose. It must be Spangden, because every time I've seen you this evening you've been dancing with him."

"I have not!" denied the pretty girl.

"Well, deny it if you choose," said the young man, with stern sadness. "One can't always believe what one sees. That's why I said you had resolved to see how miserable you could make me.

"Every time I saw you with Spangden I rushed off and pounded my head against the wall in baffled fury. If you keep it up there's no telling what will happen to me."

"As though it made any difference!" scoffed the pretty girl, getting to her feet and shaking out her skirts.

"You don't know a thing about it," said the young man with tremendous gloom. "Isn't that Spangden coming for you now? Oh, this is adding insult to injury!"

"We part friends, I hope?" said the young woman with a prettily worried arch to her eyebrows.

"On the surface, yes," said the young man. "For your sake I promise not to dash out from behind these palms and things and strangle Spangden before he reaches you. But girl, beware!"

"I think you're perfectly lovely," laughed the pretty girl. "This talk has been real fun!"

"For you perhaps," amended the young man, darkly. "Hello, Spangden!"

TO-DAY'S BEST STORY

A TEACHER in one of our elementary schools had noticed a striking platonic friendship that existed between Tommy and little Mary, two of her pupils.

Tommy was a bright enough youngster but he wasn't disposed to prosecute his studies with much energy, and his teacher saw that unless he stirred himself before the end of the year he would not be promoted.

"You must study harder," she told him, "or else you won't pass. How would you like to stay back in this class another year and have little Mary go ahead of you?"

"Aw," said Tommy, "I guess there'll be other little Marys."

THE BOUDOIR OF A FAT WOMAN

What do we see? Terrifically long and austere looking corsets, tiny (as possible) shoes, uppers bulging over the vamps, various restrainers, retainers, detainers (names unknown); perspiration disinfectants, blackhead eradicators, pimple specifics, blood medicine. Strewed around a few candy boxes, maybe an exerciser on the wall. These "properties" signify that at various times this pleasant room is the scene of fashionable tortures, of heart-burnings, of fallings from grace. Here the poor lady gasps into her retainers, her harness. Here she hides her fat-caused pimples, perspiration, blackheads, here, when her spirit is weak, she forsakes the exerciser for the deadly candy box. What a life—what a four-flush!

Society Busy With Informal Affairs To-day

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

About the only events today to disturb the social calm which seems to have settled over the inner circle are several luncheons and dinners.

Considering the fact that this is Lent, and that heretofore the smarest of our society folk have lived during that time according to rather a rigid schedule mapped out for themselves, it seems that dancing is holding an unusually conspicuous place on their Lenten program.

Small dances for the younger girls who are not yet out in society are numerous.

One of the smartest of these is the one which Mrs. Hall McAllister is to give for her daughter, Miss Louise McAllister, about the middle of the month. Mrs. McAlister is this year occupying the house of her brother-in-law, Gorham Hubbard, at No. 219 Beacon street. Mr. Hubbard sailed for Europe about a month ago.

* * *

Another dance of the near future is that which Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Peabody are to give at their home on Commonwealth avenue in honor of their debutante daughter, Miss Amy Peabody.

* * *

Major and Mrs. Harry F. Hawthorne (Annie M. Sheldon) have just arrived in Tokio, Japan, where on Tuesday Major Hawthorne took up his duties as military attache to the court of Japan. Major and Mrs. Hawthorne were married here last June, and have since made their home at Fort Hancock, N. J., where Major Hawthorne has been stationed for several years.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Foster have returned from their wedding trip, and are receiving their friends at Hotel Puritan, where they are to spend the remainder of the season.

* * *

Miss Adele G. Taylor of Commonwealth avenue, reputed to be Boston's wealthiest society bachelor maid, is at Palm Beach for the remainder of Lent. Miss Thayer will spend Easter in Washington and afterward will go to Buffalo to visit relatives before returning home. She will make the trip from Palm Beach to Boston in her touring car, stopping at the two cities mentioned en route.

* * *

Mrs. William Gibbons Preston of Beacon street, Brookline, is giving a bridge whist party this afternoon at her residence. Mrs. Paterson has been entertaining extensively this season, and seldom does a week pass in which she fails to entertain at dinner or luncheon or at bridge whist.

* * *

Mrs. Guy Currier is giving a reception this afternoon for her friend, Louise McIntosh of New York. It is expected that a large number of the friends of both Mrs. Currier and Miss McIntosh will attend, as invitations for the affair have been out for some time.

* * *

Secretary of Commerce and Labor and Mrs. Charles Nagel of Washington are giving a dinner this evening in honor of President of the United States and Mrs. William Howard Taft. The dinner today is one in the series that the members of the President's Cabinet and their wives have been giving this Winter in honor of President and Mrs. Taft.

The series started on the sixth of January, the week of the "official" opening of the season in Washington. The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. George von L. Meyer are among those who are to take their turn in the near future in entertaining these distinguished guests.

* * *

Many Boston friends are much interested in the long heralded Calico Ball, which is to be given in New York this evening at Sherry's, in the interests of that appealing charity, the Lying-in-Hospital. Among those who have the affair in charge and who are on the list of patronesses are Mrs. Austen Gray (Alice Burnham), Mrs. Austen Iselin, Mrs. W. Earl Dodge, Mrs. William Woodward, Mrs. Norman de R. White, Mrs. John Turner Atterbury, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. J. T. Oakley Rinelander, Mrs. Lloyd C. Griscom, Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. H. Fuller Cotting, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. F. Egerton Webb, Mrs. Moses Taylor, Mrs. Foxhall P. Keene, Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mrs William Jay, Mrs. A. Laufear Norrie, Mrs. Archibald S. Alexander, Mrs. Edmund Baylies, Mrs. E. J. Berwind, and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas.

* * *

Miss Martha Codman of this city has just given out the contract for a new villa on her grounds on Bellevue avenue in Newport, the construction of which will require two years.

* * *

Many of the Newport colony are turning their attention to plans for the Summer homes for the coming season, and every one who is contemplating a season at this favorite resort are interested in who their neighbors are to be.

Egerton L. Winthrop is to return for the Summer, and expects to open his home there much earlier than usual.

* * *

Report has it that Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont will spend at least part of the Summer at the Belmont country home in Newport, and Mrs. Charles M. Oelrichs is already in Newport making arrangements for the opening of the cottage that her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, are to occupy.

* * *

Mrs. H. Staples Potter, who is entertaining Miss Lenore Preston of New York city, expects as her house guest Mrs. Robert Snyder of New York, who arrives today.

* * *

Mrs. Charles A. Prince of France is sailing for her home abroad this week. She has been here as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Joseph M. Bell, and her sister, Mrs. Heman Burr (Alice Wheatland), whose marriage took place here a short time since.

The Stern Moralists Dissect "Mefistofele"

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Gounod's "Faust" is a highly moral opera. Marguerite sins, but repents and is saved, and, anyway, it was all the fault of Mephistopheles. Faust deserves all he gets, and as the audience begins to feel under the chair for its rubbers, he is dragged down to hades by the fiend, while a very substantial cloud bears the soul of Marguerite and half a dozen members of the ballet towards heaven. Everything is as it should be.

"Mefistofele" is quite different. At the first performance the stern moralists in the audience were stunned by the magnificence of the settings, and at the second act the beauty of the music still enchanted them. But now we are beginning to dissect this opera of "Mefistofele" and discover that it is no better than it should be.

What is the use of leading a life of earnest endeavor, attending church regularly and adhering strictly to the moral code, when "Mefistofele" shows us that none of these things are necessary.

This Faust is an old man who makes friends with the devil. Through his instrumentality he is introduced to Marguerite with the result made known to us in Gounod's "Faust." Incidentally he meets several score of most attractive female devils during the "Witch's Sabbath."

Dead Brought to Life.

When Faust returns to Marguerite in the prison scene she spurns him and his scarlet friend, and the angels come and carry her skyward. But and here is where the stern moralist begins to grow indignant—Faust is not dragged down to hades. Not at all. He is sad, so his dear friend Mefistofele most accommodatingly brings back to life Helen of Troy to soothe his grief. And in the next act we see him embracing a rather portly Helen, and utterly forgetful of poor little Marguerite.

Still the moralist keeps his seat, nodding grimly to himself, for he knows that Satan will have his due, and the last act shows us Faust again grown old, and Mefistofele waiting. But what is this? Faust arises and sings a most beautifull melody, in which he admits that everything he has done has been fruitless, and that he ought to be ashamed of himself.

He now dreams of being useful to his fellow man, and just for that Mefistofele loses his nerve. He calls on Faust to look at a vision and shows him several mermaids floating in an aquarium, but Faust is not looking at any common or garden sirens.

Faust Goes to Heaven.

Then the spineless Mefistofele bows his head in submission. He is defeated, and on the left appears a vision which looks like the People's Choral Union arrayed in white. They sing a song of praise and that old villain of a Faust is taken to heaven.

The curtain descends while the stern moralist snorts indignantly. But if Mefistofele had stood at the door of the opera house last night after the performance with contracts he would have got about 1500 signatures.

The performance was excellent in every particular. Alice Nielsen, who consented to take the place of Frances Alda, who is ill with appendicitis, made a most bewitching Marguerite, and sang the difficult music with the ease of a great artist. Constantino gave another polished and authoritative interpretation of Faust, and Mardones was excellent as Mefistofele, Boninsegna as Helen, Leveroni as Marta, and the other principals were quite up to the required standard.

Belles of the Younger Set Divide Their Time Between Opera and Tuileries Dance

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

With so many counter attractions, including the dance which Colonel William D. Sohier gave at the Tuilleries, in honor of Miss Dorothy Draper, daughter of the Governor and one of the Winter's most distinguished buds, grand opera was overlooked by the majority of the fashionables—and the younger set especially was sadly missed.

There were any number of smartly gowned women there, however, quite the loveliest of them all being the dainty blonde, Mary Josephine Amory, who was a guest in the Bayard Thayer box and wore a Paris gown of white satin with tunic drape of silver spangled chiffon. Pearls were her only ornaments.

In striking contrast to Miss Amory's delicate beauty was the vivacious, dark-eyed, gypsy-like Olive Thorndike, in a clinging gown of deep pink satin trimmed with gold embroidery and a wide band of gold circling her dark hair.

Both girls are beauties and it's no easy task to choose between them.

Miss Derby's Gown of Gold.

Still another girl to attract much admiring attention was Miss Rosamond Dixey who was in palest pink brocaded satin.

But the handsomest gown worn by any young girl there was that donned for the occasion by Miss Eloise Derby, who was the guest of Mrs. Frederick Converse. It was of the flimsiest white chiffon all a-glitter with gold spangles and gold sequins.

Mrs. Converse was in black velvet, the decolletege outlined in gold chiffon.

Mrs. James A. Garland, who also entertained a large box party, was in black velvet trimmed with white lace.

Miss Julia Coolidge, who is to be numbered among the brides of June, was in a most becoming creation of pale blue satin draped with heavy white lace edged with black velvet. Pink roses were worn on the bodice and in her hair.

Occupying the Bird box was a jolly party of young people, including Miss Nora Thayer, Dorothy Ball and Patrick Grant, son of Judge Grant. Miss Thayer wore white satin and pearls and Miss Ball was in white chiffon.

Mrs. M. M. Amster was in black velvet, Miss Fanny Faulkner in daisy-yellow satin trimmed with silver, and Mrs. Francis Peabody in pale blue satin and pearls.

Thayer Guests at Opera.

Mrs. John E. Thayer, who entertained at dinner and later brought her guests on to the opera, was in white satin and diamonds.

Among her guests was Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., in pale gray satin, and Miss Harriott Curtis in black.

Mrs. Wirt Dexter was in black satin trimmed with jet, and her daughter, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, was in pale blue satin with trimmings of bands of Persian embroidery.

Mrs. William P. Fay was in white satin and pearls.

Beauty in Novel Gown.

Mrs. Henry Parker Quincy who had with her her pretty dark eyed daughter, Elinor, was in black satin while Miss Elinor was in pale pink satin made with flounces of net ruching on the skirt and smaller bands of ruching on the bodice.

Mrs. Richard C. Dixey, who chaperoned her daughter, Rosamond, and a party of friends, was in black velvet.

Mrs. George Garland in dull blue satin and her daughter, Alice, in rose pink chiffon, were among those occupying the Lassell box.

A striking beauty in a most original gown was Miss Elizabeth Wells, who wore white satin with an over-drape in coat effect of deep orange velvet. Her extremely long jet earrings helped complete her rather startling toilette. Miss Wells was a guest in the George R. Fearing box.

Among the callers in the Thayer box during intermission was Mrs. Timothee Adamowski, who was stunning in a handsomely modelled gown of black jetted lace over black satin, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Miss Nina Burnham, who was with Cat tallest of all Boston's younger clubmen, George Lewis, was in radium blue satin and pearls, and was chaperoned by her aunt, Miss Hecksher of Philadelphia, who is the house guest of the Burnhams and who wore a beautiful gown of heavy black lace over black satin.

Hear Slezak

sing "Celeste Aida" in the

Edison Phonograph

The New York Tribune says:

"Mr. Slezak dominated every scene, and his clarion voice rang out superbly in the climaxes. He sang the Celeste Aida with effectiveness, and the Nile scene with fire and passion, yet always with regard for phrase."

The New York American says:

"It is but a trifling with words, of course, to say that he was the greatest Rhadames that ever appeared on the American Stage. The house was crowded and the standees out in force; yet it was Slezak, not Caruso, who sang the principal tenor role."

These comments represent the consensus of opinion of all who heard Slezak at the Metropolitan in the role of Rhadames. Could you ask for better evidence of the fact that Slezak is the greatest lyric tenor since the days of Tamagno?

He sings the "Celeste Aida" and the great arias from Verdi's "Otello" exclusively for the Edison Phonograph. The Slezak Records are Edison Grand Opera Amberols—playing longer than any other Records made.

The AMBEROLA, the newest and highest type of Edison Phonograph combines the rich, tonal beauty of the Edison Phonograph with a cabinet that is a masterpiece of craftmanship. It is charmingly designed and finished and comes in either Mahogany or Oak to harmonize with surroundings in any home. It plays both Standard and Amberol Records. It has drawers for holding 100 Records. The price is $200. Other types of Edison Phonographs, $12.50 to $125.

GOOD BILLS ARE OFFERED AT THEATRES

Henrietta Crosman has added another to the many successes which she has scored here in Boston, and the audiences at the Hollis Street Theatre are large and brilliant. The heroine of "Sham" fits her to perfection.

Boston is enjoying "The Mollusc" to the utmost, but there are only four more performances of the engagement of Sir Charles Wyndham and his London company at the Colonial Theatre.

This is positively the last week of the engagement of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" at the Tremont Theatre. The engagement of this play based on the novel by Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin has been twice extended.

William Hodge's third month at the Park Theatre is signalized by large audiences, for "The Man From Home" has not lost the least bit of its popularity.

"The Spitfire" has made an immediate hit at the Castle Square. Mr. Craig's production of this new comedy by Edward Peple is proving itself the laughing sensation of Boston.

Next week will positively be the last week of "Ben Hur," the great spectacle that has enthralled millions of spectators during the past eleven years.

"The Midnight Sons" is most assuredly on the top wave of popularity at the Shubert Theatre. As far as the box office receipts are concerned, the end of the engagement is not in sight.

Although the entertaining comedy, "Is Matrimony a Failure?" which David Belasco is offering at the Majestic Theatre, runs for nearly three hours, it seems short by reason of the amount of laughter the plot and the playing provoke.

One of the strongest dramatic attractions of the year is at the Grand Opera House this week, the play being "In the Bishop's Carriage," in which Miss Stephanie Longfellow is playing the role of Nance Olden.

With G. Molasso's big French pantomime, "Paris by Night;" Albert Hole, the English boy soprano, and Robert B. Kegerreis and company all on one program, the bill at Keith's this week offers all kinds of vaudeville for its patrons.

Vaughan Glaser in "St. Elmo," at the Globe, has scored a great success, as the big audiences demonstrate.

The Four Mortons and the Empire City Quartet, as well as Kara and the Balloon Girl, make a quartet of big headline acts at the American.

Washington Society Girls at the Howard are representing life in the nation's capital most faithfully and amusingly.

The big Behman Show at the Gaiety is the sort of burlesque troupe that never fails to arouse gales of laughter.

All the picture and vaudeville houses, the Bowdoin Square, Austin & Stone's, Hub, Beacon, Scenic and Comique change their bills to-day.

Improvement in the steel trade is becoming pronounced. Not only does the Trust report increased business, but the railroad equipment concerns say they are receiving new orders at a heavy rate. Their stocks indicate something of the kind.

The indications are that the Morgan interests are only waiting for the Supreme Court decision in the tobacco case and the carrying through of several important preliminary plans before taking definite steps toward the giant copper merger, which was temporarily held up some time ago.

Laymen do not realize the full import of the telephone company's acquisition of the Western Telegraph Company. Commercially, it is in a sense revolutionary. Financially, it must prove beneficial for both companies. One peculiarly qualified to speak on the subject is Richard E. Sunny, president of the Chicago Telephone Company. "To put it concisely, this control of the Western Union by the American Telegraph & Telephone means a telegraph station in every house and office that has a telephone, and a telephone wherever there is a telegraph station, however remote the locality," Sunny observes. "When the plan of mutual operation shall have been completed, everybody who has a telephone may conveniently send or receive messages to and from anywhere. The messenger will be abolished. Time will be saved. Delays in filing and in delivering telegrams will be obviated. At the same time the telephone will speedily feel the benefit of the interchange of business. While the American company will unquestionably adopt a broad and liberal policy in conducting the affairs of the Western Union, the unification of the two businesses will in a way make for economy in operation."

STEEL SHARES LEAD MARKET

STATE STREET, March 3.—Stocks started out strong again in Wall Street. Higher prices from London furnished the motive power, while continued strength of Steel shares and talk that the next New York Central dividend declaration would be at the rate of 6 per cent. furnished fuel for the bull element.

After the first hour's prices sagged on profit taking and declines averaging ½ per cent. followed. Particular strength was shown in General Electric and Consolidated Gas. In the latter the argument between counsel and the City of New York brings up counter claims on the franchise tax and past due lighting bills which have been arranged and the balance in favor of the municipality is about $500,000.

Continued activity in copper shares in Boston copper stocks did not bring any material price changes. Lake stock was more even in price movements, although a 1⅞ point advance from last night's closing followed. North Butte continued firm, with La Salle a strong feature. There is talk of soliciting proxies for the next annual meeting of the North Butte Company for the purpose of putting a Boston man on the board of directors. The interest is large enough here to warrant such action. Quotations of 14 cents for Lake Copper were reported this forenoon.

Steel shares were bought for London account and the price made high at 85⅝. Amalgamated and Anaconda were both strong, while Smelters rose over a point. Reading was the leader in the railroad list with Union Pacific second.

Local curb trading was of fair volume with special strength in Humboldt, Smelters and Champion mining stocks.

WALL STREET STOCKS STRONG

NEW YORK, March 3.—Strength and activity were displayed by stocks in Wall street to-day. Amalgamated Copper, Smelters and Anaconda were the favorites because of the strength shown by copper metal in London.

Reading, Union Pacific, Steel, Atchison and Pennsylvania were also moderately active and scored substantial gains.

Specialties were strong and higher in sympathy with the standard railroad and industrial shares. The resignation of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as a director of the Standard Oil Company was not considered as significant.

American shares were higher in London. High priced copper stocks were the favorites on the curb market and recorded fractional gains.

HUMBOLDT SMELTER

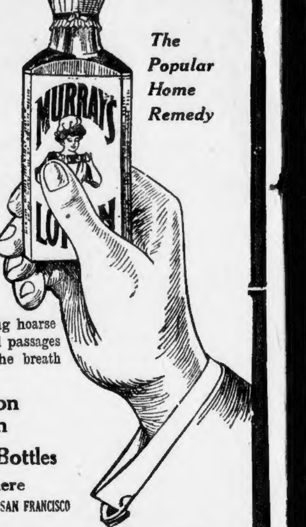

Humboldt Smelter is an Arizona corporation, with a capital stock of $750,000, divided into 150,000 shares, of a par value of $5. The shares are listed and traded in on the Boston Curb Exchange. Its properties are located in the Big Bug district, near the Consolidated Arizona, and anyone who is at all familiar with this Big Bug district knows that it is coming very fast now, and with the starting of the smelter, this month, after two years of idleness, the entire camp will echo with the sound of the drill and the hum of prosperity. It is said that, besides its properties, Humboldt has other assets, which give its shares a tremendous speculative value.

I told you a few days ago to "nail" some of this Champion Copper, while the price is low. It's a bargain, and is being given away by those who paid a higher price for it, because they think the world is coming to an end. But I tell you this good old World is going right on, and the stock market will go right on too, and some fine morning they'll jump this Champion, just as they have jumped Humboldt the last few days, and as I believe they're likely to jump it the next few days.

CIVIC BODIES WORK TO MAKE BOSTON GROW

Boston betterment was the burden of thought and discussion at the first annual meeting and banquet of the United Improvement Association, composed of members of the improvement organizations of suburban cities and towns. The United Association held its banquet at the City Club.

President Allen T. Treadway of the Senate, Speaker Joseph Walker of the House, and Acting Mayor Walter Ballantyne spoke for the State and the city.

"It is the purpose of this organization to obtain for the citizens of Boston their full rights, privileges and advantages through all the agencies that the city has created and can create and indirectly through its public corporations. With the assistance of every true citizen of Boston the task will be an easy one," said Judge Michael H. Sullivan, president of the Improvement Association.

Needs More Railroads.

President Treadway spoke of the advantage of connecting the western part of the State with Boston by means of more railroads. He said this would benefit this city and keep the trade here instead of letting it go to New York.

"The New Haven," continued Mr. Treadway, "is ready to give us railroad development that would change this. That company stands ready to spend $2,000,000 in the construction of trolley lines in the Berkshires that would give that section out there the connections that it should have. The entire western part of the State is in favor of the New Haven being permitted to do this. No independent company can find it profitable to come in there and develop that country. The work must be done by roads that will be built as tributaries to existing systems. It should be a mutual matter between the western part of the State and the eastern part. You should be interested in the welfare of the whole State."

"A city should always live strictly within its income," Speaker Walker said, "and when you are urging improvements upon the City Council you should remember that if Boston gets to going too fast there will be a reaction and the very things that you would ultimately accomplish for your city will be impossible because of a great debt."

Higher Tax Rate Here.

Acting Mayor Ballantyne intimated very strongly that the tax rate in the city next year will probably be as high as the present rate, if not higher. "The City Council will be liberal in its appropriations this year for current needs and for improvements," he asserted, "even if the tax rate is not reduced. I believe that a low tax rate is not to be so much sought as good streets, clean streets and the good health of the people. I believe that men would rather pay a $16 or $17 rate and have clean, well watered streets, rather than to have a tax rate of $15.50."

Mr. Ballantyne said that the trips the Mayor and Council made to the various parts of the district were considered by those officials to have been productive of much good.

REPORT LOST WOMAN AT BOSTON HOTEL

NEW YORK, March 3.—Miss Vera Cornell of the Hotel Majestic, whose mother, Mrs. Lillian Cornell Curnen, disappeared last Thursday, notified the police that she had received word that her mother was in Boston.

At the hotel Miss Cornell said that she had been notified that Mrs. Curnen was at the Parker House, Boston, very ill.

At the Parker House it was stated that the name Curnen did not appear upon the register, and no woman answering her description had been there.

FLOATING FORTRESS A FUNERAL SHIP

NORFOLK, Va., March 3.—The Minas Geraes, one of the most powerful fighting ships afloat, arrived off Hampton Roads today. She comes to take to Brazil the body of Ambassador Joaquim Nabuco, who died in Washington on January 17. The Minas Geraes was built in England and turned over to the Brazilian navy on January 22, 1910. She is of 19,500 tons and carries an unusually heavy armament, twelve 12-inch guns. She is larger than the original Dreadnought.

100,000 TO ASK PARDON FOR MORSE

NEW YORK, March 3.—The Morse petition league, according to statements made to-day, has been organized for the purpose of obtaining in Greater New York before June 1 100,000 names asking for the pardon of Charles W. Morse, former banker, now in the federal prison at Atlanta. The league was formed as the result of the earnest pleading of Mrs. Morse to many influential friends of her husband.

REV. J. J. HARKINS IS MUCH IMPROVED

The Rev. John J. Harkins, assistant pastor of the Church of St. Augustine, South Boston, who is a patient at Carney Hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis, is much improved. His speedy recovery is expected by his physicians.

Pianos and Musical Instruments. Pianos and Musical Instruments.

We Are Always Fighting the Piano Trust

The name "Piano Trust" sounds big, looks powerful and frightens a good many small piano dealers. They wouldn't dare to cut the price on a "Piano Trust" instrument. We have been cutting their prices for months—cutting—slashing—and actually slaughtering their prices and have been whipping the Big Piano Trust representatives in every N. E. State. We confess that we are making but little money doing it, but we are still in the ring and selling almost any make of high grade Pianos, new or second-hand, at prices that make the Big Piano Trust sick.

Buy Your Piano With Your Brains

For a small amount of money and the use of a fair amount of brains you can get the best makes of pianos here at a price from $100 to $200 less than you can at any large piano dealers' warerooms.

This is a fact—Don't take anyone's word for it—investigate for yourself—Use your brains and save your money.

Waiting to Be Discovered

Many a Young Man's Conceit Keeps Him Idle and Useless. A Hint Here, Perhaps, for Some One YOU Know

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal-Examiner

The North Pole waited a long time to be discovered. It HAD to wait. If it had had its own way, perhaps, it would have come down here and discovered us instead of waiting for Peary.

Many young men—and old ones, too—are waiting, like the North Pole, to be discovered.

There are about a MILLION ways of excusing failure, ten million ways of achieving failure, and as many ways of soothing with excuses the vanity of the failure.

The making of excuses is the principal industry in this world.

And the excuse habit is the worst with which a man—especially a young man—can be cursed.

Go out AND DISCOVER YOURSELF.

And begin by discovering the fact that the trouble with you is that you don't work HARD enough, that you spend more time thinking what other people and the world in general owe to YOU than in thinking of what YOU owe to the world.

The average young man would laugh at a hen if he heard her say, "Well, it is easy for the other hens to lay eggs. If I had their luck, their nice soft nests and their leisure I ALSO would lay eggs."

To such a hen the young man would say, "Don't talk nonsense. If you do not lay eggs, it is because there are no eggs IN you. As soon as you get an egg you will lay it."

The hen might turn around to the young man and do him a lot of good by saying, "If you don't do any work that is worth while, IT IS BECAUSE THAT WORK ISN'T IN YOU."

Many a young man fools himself saying that some day, when he has time, when conditions are just right, and the world appreciates him, HE WILL DO SOMETHING.

If he doesn't do it NOW, he may as well conclude that he never will do it.

Every day it is harder to do the thing that is put off.

There may be in the world great geniuses that succeed easily—if there are any such, they are very few.

The average run of us little people depend on just one thing for success, and that is WORK. If you work a little HARDER than the other man, you will succeed a little BETTER. If you work a GREAT DEAL harder than the other man, you will succeed a great deal better.

And you have got to work in more ways than one. You have got to keep at your work that brings money. You have got to work at self-denial, which keeps you healthy and able to work properly.

And you have especially got to work to get out of your head the idea of your own surpassing merits, and the utterly absurd notion that the trouble is in the world doesn't appreciate you.

Do something, and you will be appreciated quickly.

And until you do something, be sure that nobody will take the trouble to hunt you up. If you happen not to need this individually, "excuse it," as the telephone girls say, and pass it to some one that does need it.

EDITORIAL POINTS

The scientific name for stovaine is ethyldimethylaminopentanolbenzoylhydrochloride. There you are. Forty-six letters in a row. It is fortunate that the good effects of the new anesthetic are not dependent upon the sufferer's ability to pronounce the name.

T. R. is on his way out of the jungle. Now watch things get busy.

From the Immigration Commission it is learned that of foreign-born residents of America about one-seventh are common, or day, laborers. Of their children, however, only one-twelfth are laborers. The same proportion is maintained among the native-born whites. Has this decrease in laborers anything to do with the increased cost of living?

Why not try Professor Munsterberg's machine for the detection of liars on all the bank clerks?

Well, did anyone ever intimate that the Boston telephone girls aren't the best in the country? Ask Central.

HOW DOES HE GET AWAY WITH IT?

COL. T. W. HIGGINSON TELLS OF BROOK FARM, WHICH WAS BURNED 64 YEARS AGO TODAY

By GEORGE G. SHOR.

THINKERS the country over, especially the few left of that group which flourished during the Emersonian period, when Concord was the real national capital, are to-day marking the sixty-fourth anniversary of the destruction by fire of the buildings at Brook Farm and the consequent dispersal of that community, which for a time made a paradise out of West Roxbury.

For Brook Farm was a place where the thinkers worked at menial occupations, where the washerwoman and the prince were on terms of equality. It was the first practical attempt in America at Socialism or Communism.

Brook Farm was the place where George Wilkins Curtis, editor and author, helped the women do the washing as his share of the menial labor; where Hawthorne, one of the greatest of American authors, worked in the field and stable tending cattle, and there served his community as trader by swapping cows for products they needed; where men who afterward became famous in intellectual circles did menial work that unlady of the kitchen now relegates to her inferiors.

Colonel Higginson Gives Farm History.

Few remain who remember the race of giants that made up Brook Farm or who know intimately the most prominent of the men and women who tried this novel experiment and failed. Among the number who still can recall with pleasure his many visits to Brook Farm is Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson, at eighty-six, still active in every good cause, and the dean of American men of letters.

Colonel Higginson, almost the last man who was well acquainted with the leaders in the movement—with Thoreau, Hawthorne, George William Curtis, George Ripley and the others—to-day gives to the AMERICAN his story of Brook Farm, how he was brought into contact with it and how it impressed him.

"Brook Farm is gone," says Mr. Higginson, "but the ideal remains. It remains ever with young people. It has taken a new guise. It is no longer so picturesque, it is rather prosaic and practical.

"But it exists right here in Boston just as strong, if not stronger than when Hawthorne and Thoreau and Dana and the others of the community tried their Communistic idea."

Founded in 1841 by George Ripley.

He gave a few words of history before starting his story; how George Ripley of Boston founded the community in 1841 and gave it the name of the Brook Farm Association at West Roxbury; how about a dozen young men gave up all their money to the cause and put up a splendid building; how they lived a perfect communal life, all taking their share of the menial work; how music and letters made up a large share of the daily life; and lastly how the failure to insure the buildings caused the dispersal of the community.

"My first impression of the community," said Colonel Higginson, "came through my cousin Miss Barbara Channing, who knew a number of the young men well. She took me out there to visit—I was quite young then—and we went a number of other times. The young men returned the calls and I grew to know them quite well.

"They all worked at menial labor at some part of the day. I remember that Hawthorne looked out for the cattle; he was supposed to be quite a judge of live stock.

"George William Curtis helped the women with the washing and his brother Burrill Curtis did likewise. I can't remember what the others did for their living but they all had some menial occupation.

The Ideal Life In Beauty Spot.

"Music played a prominent part in the life of the community. It was at the beginning of the musical education of the people of this country. And then there were outdoor parties and literary meetings.

"In many ways the life was ideal. The place, as I remember it, was beautifully situated. It was high and the view was excellent. There were some fine rocks there which added to the beauty.

"The man I remember with most pleasure, perhaps, is Charles A. Dana. The boys returned the visit at my cousin's house in Brookline and Mr. Perkins, with whom I was living then, did not approve of them. They were fantastic costumes and seemed more or less affected. Their cups were extremely picturesque, but they did not meet with the approval of some people.

"Only one man was free from affectation, and he was, next to the founder, George Ripley, the most striking figure there. That was Charles A. Dana, afterwards a prominent editor of New York and one of the best known authors of his time. He was entirely free from affectation.

"Mr. Perkins, who regarded the fancy dresses of Dana's companions with contempt, liked Dana for himself. Everybody did.

Began Literary Life With Dana.

"Dana was an indefatigable worker. When he was not helping with the washing on the farm he was editing the Harbinger, a magazine published by the young men, and in which I began my literary career, which has extended over more than half a century.

"And besides that he taught German in a nearby school. He could talk the language very well. He was a very handsome young man, as I remember, and a very agreeable talker.

"I was very young at the time—not more than nineteen or twenty. The Miss Channing who took me to Brook Farm was the sister of my first wife. The Channings were rather closely connected with the community.

"The Rev. William Henry Channing used to go out there on Sundays a great deal and preach at their services. The son of the Rev. Mr. Channing went to England to live and is now a member of Parliament. Dr. Codman also lived at the community and I knew him.

"Of course I was disposed to be very much interested in the ideals of the community. We all naturally floated into it. All liberals were interested in it. It was Emersonian, and Emerson and Theodore Parker were the leaders in the school of thought, though neither was directly connected with Brook Farm.

World Famous Men as Members

"I became interested to the extent of writing for the Harbinger. It was a splendid magazine, for such youthful authors and editors, and the literary career I began then I am still keeping up at the age of eighty-six.

"Besides the men who are known popularly, there were some other remarkable men in the community. They afterwards became known all over the country in some special line.

"Among them was John S. Dwight, who became the leading authority on musical matters in America. He published a music magazine which became a standard.

"There were also two members who left the liberal teachings of the community to become Catholics. Father Hecker, founder of the Paulist order, was one of them. I don't now recall the name of the other.

"The music at Brook Farm interested me immensely. It was the birth of music in America. Beethoven was hardly known and the other composers unheard of here. The liking for real music and the appreciation for it were just being developed.

"I remember my sister was the first person in this vicinity to play Beethoven. It was very much of a novelty. John Dwight of the Brook Farm community used to come down to the house. A man named Haversham, a man from the Southern part of the country, used to come also and bring his silver flute. A silver flute was also a rarity then.

"I do not remember the fourth person, but they used to spend an evening playing Beethoven. I used to leave my bedroom door open and in that way heard the concerts.

Curtis' Love Poems Heart Breakers.

"What more do I remember of Brook Farm? I knew George William Curtis quite well. He had lived in Concord and I saw him and his brother there often. In his earlier works, after leaving Brook Farm, he seemed to be quite artificial in his style. This was especially so after his tour of Europe. His books about Egypt and the Mediterranean seemed quite stiff.

"Then he went into politics and did splendidly. He was absolutely fearless and defended his ideals with strength. He was a masterly speaker, rather an agreeable public speaker. His brother, Burrill, disappeared from view. I never knew what became of him.

"While at the Farm Curtis was very popular with the young women. He was a very pleasing young man and his manners were charming. He also could write fantastic notes. His verse, often written and dedicated to young women, worked havoc in Boston with some of them.

"I know of two or three girls who were heartbroken because of some verses he wrote to them. They were beautifully phrased but he did not mean what he said.

"There were other striking figures in the community at this time. Albert Brisbane came in and seemed to take things into his own hands. The ideas of Fournier were adopted more fully. They established the idea of the phalanx and the three lines of industry, agriculture, domestic industry and the mechanics arts.

"Then I remember John S. Dwight and George P. Bradford, who I believe were among the original incorporators. Margaret Fuller was not a member, though she was there often. Nor was Emerson. Alcott was.

"Another man I remember was Frank Shaw, who published a number of delightful books.

"The community was somewhat declining when the fire came. That was sixty-four years ago to-day, March 3, 1846. There were, however, still some very strong men in the community and the ideal was still flourishing with them.

"But they had put their money into the new buildings and forgot to get insurance. The result was that when the buildings were destroyed they had nothing with which to begin anew.

"All they had had been put into the communal structure. That was their folly. How much longer the community would have existed if the fire had not come I cannot say.

Ideals Still Live In Different Form.

The community formally dissolved in 1847.

"Do you think the love for the ideal is as strong to-day as it was then?" Colonel Higginson was asked.

"I think there are young people to-day with ideals that are just as strong and just as fine, if not finer. But the ideal takes a different form. The members of Brook Farm were more picturesque.

"The ideal took a more impulsive, a more poetic form. It was a more picturesque period. The same conditions existed in Germany.

"But the ideal interests young men and young women all the time. Now it is taking a more prosaic form, a more practical form. Now the young men and girls are doing their work in schools and colleges and other institutions of that kind.

"New forms of educational institutions are springing up every day. Original projects are started everywhere, especially in Boston. The number of different schools in Boston is remarkable. They are all striving after the ideal in some form.

"The period is different from that of Brook Farm time. The ardent enthusiast has gone, but in his stead we have the patient worker and a wider sympathy. The problems to-day are different and are being met in different ways.

"The attention to the poor is greater to-day than ever. The public conscience is more wide awake and more active in its best sense is claiming more and more of our young people.

"What the breaking up of Brook Farm and the communistic idea in its entirety suffered a severe blow, but did not die immediately. Colonies were established in some of the Western States, but none of them lived very long.

"The ideals, however, of the Brook Farm enthusiasts were spread broadcast. No understating of a like nature ever was written about so much or aroused so much discussion among able men. Scores of books have been written about it, but few by men who were in any way connected with the place or its leaders.

"Hawthorne made it famous in his "Blithedale Romance," which, under the guise of a novel, is believed to contain a fairly accurate account of his life in the community.

And the ideal of the community is still alive. In the words of George Ripley, it was founded:
